N. A. V. I. N. FIELD, DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Once more and for the last time, this very violent city of Detroit gathered today to do itself proud in its own peculiar and intimate way, the occasion being the seventh, final and decisive game of this wildest of all games series between the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Each had won three games previously, the Cardinals tying it up yesterday when Paul Dean beat Schooboy Rowe in what was regarded as the key-game of the series.

Chest Teams Prepare To Renew Drive For Full Goal Of $72,000

Like a determined army that fights on until its battle is won, New Castle's Community Chest campaigners, mustered to serve a noble community cause, will continue their drive on Thursday and Friday of this week for the $22,026.11 needed to spell success of the 1934-35 drive to subscribe $72,000.

At Community Chest headquarters in the Greer building, a busy office staff has prepared 500 additional prospect cards which several campaign divisions—they're being called upon to solicit in the hopes of obtaining at least a part of the needed sum.

The drive formally ended with a dinner last Friday night, at which the organization reported $49,973.89 subscribed.

It was during that dinner program that a ringing challenge came to the Blue and White armies and the Women's Crusaders and others to go out this week to raise the amount which stands between the amount now piedged and victory.

General Chairman W. Walter Braham, hard-working leader of last week's four-day drive, believes that the energetic team men and women will write into pledge cards this week the greater part of the $22,000 and more still needed.

He believes so because he believes the men feel, as he does, that New Castle's eight leading character-building institutions which depend largely upon their efforts for support, should not be forced again this winter to curtail activities which today's conditions almost demand that they carry on.

The Blue and White army leaders, he became known, are being kept informed of developments for the post-campaign solicitation.

Team heads will be called to the Chest offices, 420 Greer building, North Mercer street, on Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock to receive their share of new cards.

Dictatorship Is Likely In Spain

MADRID, Oct. 9.—While undaunted rebels continued to battle police and troops in several sections, the government today decided upon extreme measures to restore revolt to Spain to normalcy.

Immediate establishment of a practical dictatorship loomed as the first step. Although its regime of less than a week has brought about the most fierce revolt in recent Spanish history, the reactionary government of Premier Alejandro Lerroux will go before the Cortes today to ask for, and undoubtedly receive, a vote of confidence.

Backed by a majority coalition of the right-wing parties, the cabinet will then demand extraordinary powers ruthlessly to crush the rebellion.

One Hundred Days For Fish Shooter

Dynamiting Fish In Seventh Ward Brings Long Jail Term

Nobody knows how many fish Tony LaBette of 539 Liberty street, got when he dynamited the backwaters of the Shenango river on October 5. Regardless of the number, Tony figures the cost was too expensive. Before Alderman James C. Brice was given the penalty, the law provided $100 fine or one hundred days in jail. He didn't have the $100 and drew the jail sentence. By the time he gets out in 1935 will be well established.

He pleaded guilty to the charge of dynamiting for fish in the backwaters of the Shenango river in the Seventh Ward, the charge being brought by J. H. Simmons, a fish warden. Under the law the alderman was powerless to do anything but assess the fine and failure to produce the $100 brought the jail sentence, one day in jail for every dollar of the fine.

INDICTMENT FOR MURDER RETURNED

Lindbergh Identifies Voice

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Desperately resisting any move to take him out of the state, Bruno Richard Hauptmann today fought with his back to the wall against extradition to New Jersey, an indictment charging the "premeditated" murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

As Bronx and New Jersey officials made ready for a conference today on ways and means of rushing extradition plans, the prisoner's son, James M. Fawcett, mapped out a bitter legal fight which conceivably may drag out in the courts for an indefinite period.

Voice Identified

Over and above the purely technical aspects of the case, the perils of extradition for Hauptmann were brought home more forcibly than ever before by the disclosure that Col. Lindbergh had thrice identified Hauptmann's voice as that of the ransom receiver who called to Dr. John F. Condon in St. Raymond's cemetery on the night of April 1.

With Attorney General David Wilentz, of New Jersey, due to announce the date of his intended extradition today, indications were that Hauptmann's counsel will sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

This move will be possible after Hauptmann comes up in a court of record on the extradition warrant and makes an affidavit that he is guiltless of the crime.

A delay may then occur while the writ is being argued. And even if it is summarily set aside it may be appealed. Even if all court proceedings are rushed, as they unquestionably will be, a tedious interval may elapse.

To Fight Extradition

The fact that some such strategy is being planned was confirmed in ringing tones by Fawcett himself. He said:

Taking aim at the automobile of cheering citizens through the main street of the city, the assassin firing at least a dozen shots.

Two of them at least struck the king. One entered his side near the

Horrified spectators saw him

Dr. Rule Calls State Sessions

Citizens' Conference To Be

SMALL DISTRICTS MAY BE COMBINED

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—With public co-operation promised, the drive to reduce the number of Pennsylvania school districts in order to lower the cost of education gets underway in earnest here October 10 and 11 at statewide citizens' conference called by Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction.

Upwards of 2,000 delegates are expected to attend the conference at which state educational officials will seek to organize public opinion behind their drive to pare the number of the state's more than 2600 school districts, each now levying their separate taxes.

Although Dr. Rule has for the past several years pleaded for a reduction in the number of districts and their consolidation into larger units, the net result has been only two such mergers in the past year.

Some Opposition

Officials in the smaller school districts appear loathe to accept the state's suggestions for consolidation and as a result Dr. Rule has called a conference of public spirited citizens who will be asked to carry his message "back home" and press the campaign locally.

Recent depression conditions have exposed the inefficient and costly horse and buggy era methods of school district organization and administration that have been in operation for a full century," Dr. Rule said.

"Conditions have also revealed an unbalanced and inadequate system of school support.

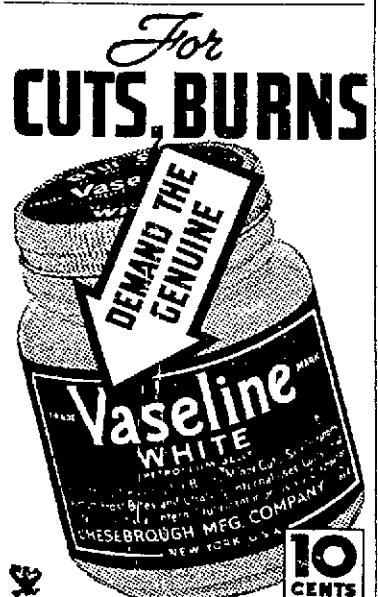

"The public has come to see the advisability for legislation that will correct some of the out-grown traditions and customs."

Dr. Rule contends that smaller districts have been forced to accept inefficient educational standards because of the lack of funds and that the consolidation of such units into larger districts will greatly enhance educational opportunities for Pennsylvania children at the same time decreasing the cost.

Would Aid Taxpayers

He declares consolidation will result in a reduction in the state's educational tax levies that will bring relief to many over-burdened tax-payers.

Among the other subjects to be considered at the conference are revision of the present system of distributing state aid which Dr. Rule has described as "antiquated"; reduction of the school tax load on real estate, and reconstruction of the instructional program.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot will preside at the opening session of the conference Wednesday night, October 10. Ralph E. Weeks, of Scranton, chairman of the taxation committee of the state chamber of commerce, will preside at the Thursday morning session and Walter Biddle Saul of the Philadelphia board of education, will preside at the closing session Thursday night.

Taylor Street Sewer Project Is Approved

Approval of the Taylor street sewer project in the City of New Castle was received today by George Mudehart, RWD director for Lawrence county. Work is expected to start on Monday, October 15, with approximately 200 men being given work on the project. This is not taken to mean that there will be 200 working at one time. Rather it will mean two shifts of 100 men each.

With the start of the Taylor street sewer job and the Taggart stadium addition, every bricklayer in the Bronx will be employed, according to Mr. Mudehart. Plans of other projects are expected within the next few days.

Premier Lerroux to form a government, may be the strong man in the dictatorship, although he is not a member of the cabinet.

After a night in which the Madrid revolutionaries seemed to have taken a new lease on life, authorities sought to restore normal conditions "by decree."

They ordered all stores, restaurants and other public establishments to reopen immediately, subject to a fine of $2,750 or arrest of the owners for failure to comply.

Guards went from house to house compelling all residents to open their windows and shutters.

Nevertheless, the general strike, which the government outlawed, went on, with only a few employees returning to their tasks. Madrid was again newspaperless this morning, but it was expected that the conservative organs would soon appear.

Lull In Fighting

Morning brought a temporary lull in the fighting that broke out in Madrid late yesterday, and continued all night in several parts of the city.

Although the ministry of the interior reiterated its optimistic statement that "the revolution has failed completely," more fighting was reported from the Asturias section, Barcelona, Valencia, Oviedo, and smaller provincial points.

Reports from Barcelona said that tanks shelled dock sheds where syndicalists and anarchists were hiding, burning forty to death. Twenty were killed in street fighting.

Luis Companys, ex-president of the Catalonian parliament, and leader in the accession of that province, has been sentenced to death by a court martial sitting aboard his prison ship, the cruiser Uruguay, off Barcelona. The cabinet is expected to confirm the court's findings today.

So far there have been no executions. War Minister Diego Hidalgo told International News Service, but other courts martial will begin functioning immediately, and firing squads will begin their deadly work soon afterwards, he said.

late this afternoon, according to Attorney Frank McGuigan, chief of the defense counsel, McGuigan said it was necessary to proceed carefully and examine the testimony in great detail.

A few weeks will pass before the motion can be argued before the Luzerne county court en banc and then a few more before a decision is handed down. Appeals to the state supreme court and the state board of pardons, if necessary, will delay final determination of Edwards' fate still further.

"If Hauptmann is innocent I see no reason why his counsel should oppose extradition. I anticipate no difficulties. We expect to try him for murder."

So far as Bronx District Attorney Foley's plans for trying the suspect on an extortion charge are concerned; there was little consolation for Hauptmann in the prosecutor's attitude. But the Bronx district attorney insisted on proceeding with the extortion trial on Thursday. Hauptmann would be spared the immediate ordeal of extradition.

"No Dismissal Of Extortion"

But when Foley was asked whether he would move to dismiss the extortion case, he made this laconic reply:

"Sure, I'll dismiss it after Jersey has electrocuted him."

Although there has been no pause in the routine of preparing for the extortion trial in the Bronx on Thursday, Foley was to be one of the conferees today in Trenton, and there was no doubt that he would co-operate in plans for immediate extradition.

A more definite statement on the identification of the suspect came from Attorney General Wilentz. He announced that Col. Lindbergh had specifically declared Hauptmann's voice to be the same as the voice he had overheard.

It was recalled that Lindbergh, unknown to Hauptmann, had listened to the suspect call out "Hey, Doctor" in different tones during an examination at the Bronx district attorney's office. "Hey, Doctor," was the greeting which the ransom receiver called to Dr. Condon on the night of the ransom payment.

Some angles of the defense strategy began to appear today in New Jersey when it was learned that three detectives employed by William Martin, private investigator, have been following closely in the footsteps of state police and questioning all important witness whom the Jersey authorities have examined.

Extradition Conference

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—District Attorney Samuel J. Foley, of Bronx county, will journey to Trenton this afternoon to discuss the Lindbergh kidnapping case with Governor A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, and Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

Foley said the conference would take up the extradition proceedings against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnapping suspect, indicted for extortion in Bronx county and indicted for murder in New Jersey.

"We will also discuss the entire kidnapping case," said Foley.

Before leaving for Trenton, Foley will attend a luncheon being tendered Governor Herbert Lehman, of New York, and it was assumed the district attorney would discuss the extradition procedure with the governor.

The district attorney revealed the details of how Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh identified the voice of Hauptmann in his office on September 27 shortly after the prisoner's arrest.

Foley said there were 15 or 20 persons in the room among whom was Colonel Lindbergh disguised in dark glasses and a cap.

Edwards walked up and down the room and was made to say "Hey, doctor" in various tones.

Colonel Lindbergh identified the voice as the same one he heard over the cemetery wall in the Bronx on the night of April 2 when Dr. John F. Condon ("Jaesie") paid over $50,000.

Foley said there were 15 or 20 persons in the room among whom was Colonel Lindbergh disguised in dark glasses and a cap.

Hauptmann walked up and down the room and was made to say "Hey, doctor" in various tones.

Colonel Lindbergh identified the voice as the same one he heard over the cemetery wall in the Bronx on the night of April 2 when Dr. John F. Condon ("Jafste") paid over $50,000.

Blinn replied that "We don't believe it possible to agree with you on rates without going to the Public Service Commission." Relative to records, the company officials said all the company's records were on file and could be seen at Harrisburg.

Solicitor White admitted the city had no legal right to demand the records unless complaint was filed with the commission.

Mayor Mayne cut the hearing short when he asked if the company was willing to give the electric engineers the records they wanted and Blinn replied: "We are not."

Reynolds was crippled for life and police and prison authorities vowed to exact vengeance.

Lynch was recaptured four days after the escape; his sentence for robbery doubled; and he is now serving in Western Penitentiary.

A native of Kingston, Pa., Bishie began in 1912 to serve a life term for the murder of Irvin Berger, a bank messenger, in Scranton. After serving 15 years, Bishie, aided by Lynch, slugged Guard Reynolds into insensibility with a piece of pipe.

The two convicts hurled their victim from the top of the wall and lowered themselves to the street with a rope.

The search spread to Europe where at one time or another Bishie was reported seen in Germany, Poland and Lithuania.

A few days ago Bishie was spotted in Syracuse. Detective Frank King and Walter Tees, assistant chief patrol officer, were sent to the up-state New York city, where they cooperated with Syracuse police in trapping the fugitive this morning.

Deaths of the Day

Agnes Grace Wagner

Miss Agnes Grace Wagner, aged 33 years, died at her residence, 314 Oak street, at 9:30 o'clock Monday night, after a sudden heart attack. The news comes as a shock to her many friends in business and church circles.

Miss Wagner was born in New Castle on March 17, 1901, the daughter of John A. and Sara Anna Johnston Wagner. She was employed for a number of years by the former Brown and Hamilton company and later by the Lawrence Saving and Trust company.

At the Second United Presbyterian church, where she was a member, Miss Wagner took an active interest in the work, especially among the young people, and had been a Sunday school teacher for many years.

For the past several years she had been a member of the New Castle Business and Professional Women's club and had a part in all of the activities of the organization.

Surviving her is her mother; one sister, Mrs. Esther Smiley, of Beaver, Pa.; two brothers, Alex J. and George E., of New Castle.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence, 314 Oak street, with Dr. C. K. McGeorge, pastor of Indiana county, which is a mark for Lawrence county to shoot at should the Convention come here next year. However, at the 1927 Convention, Lawrence county had 1850 registered delegates.

Wednesday, October 17, has been the day designated for the gathering of food stuffs and canned goods for the Almira Home, according to the statement of Mrs. Jennima Foster, chairman of donations of the Almira Home board. New Castle residents have always been liberal in their donations to the home and it is anticipated that this year will be no exception. Empty jars may be obtained at the home to fill with fruits or vegetables.

Dr. Rule Calls State Sessions

Citizens' Conference To Be Held At Harrisburg On October 10-11

SMALL DISTRICTS MAY BE COMBINED

By SIDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—With public co-operation promised, the drive to reduce the number of Pennsylvania school districts in order to lower the cost of education gets underway in earnest here October 10 and 11 at statewide citizens' conference called by Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction.

Upwards of 2,000 delegates are expected to attend the conference at which state educational officials will seek to organize public opinion behind their drive to pare the number of the state's more than 2500 school districts, each now levying their separate taxes.

Although Dr. Rule has for the past several years pleaded for a reduction in the number of districts and their consolidation into larger units, the net result has been only two such mergers in the past year.

Some Opposition

Officials in the smaller school districts appear loath to accept the state's suggestions for consolidation and as a result Dr. Rule has called a conference of public spirited citizens who will be asked to carry his message "back home" and press the campaign locally.

"Recent depression conditions have exposed the inefficient and costly 'horse and buggy era' methods of school district organization and administration that have been in operation for a full century," Dr. Rule said.

"Conditions have also revealed an unbalanced and inadequate system of school support.

"The public has come to see the advisability for legislation that will correct some of the out-grown traditions and customs."

Dr. Rule contends that smaller districts have been forced to accept inefficient educational standards because of the lack of funds and that the consolidation of such units into larger districts will greatly enhance educational opportunities for Pennsylvania children at the same time decreasing the cost.

Would Aid Taxpayers

He declares consolidation will result in a reduction in the state's educational tax levies that will bring relief to many over-burdened taxpayers.

Among the other subjects to be considered at the conference are revision of the present system of distributing state aid which Dr. Rule has described as "antiquated"; reduction of the school tax load on real estate, and reconstruction of the instructional program.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot will preside at the opening session of the conference Wednesday night, October 10. Ralph E. Weeks, of Scranton, chairman of the taxation committee of the state chamber of commerce, will preside at the Thursday morning session and Walter Biddle Saul, of the Philadelphia board of education, will preside at the closing session Thursday night.

Taylor Street Sewer Project Is Approved

Approval of the Taylor street sewer project in the City of New Castle was received today by George Mudehart, RWD director for Lawrence county. Work is expected to start on Monday, October 15, with approximately 200 men being given work on the project. This is not taken to mean that there will be 200 working at one time. Rather it will mean two shifts of 100 men each.

With the start of the Taylor street sewer job and the Taggart stadium addition, every bricklayer on the RWD rolls will be employed, according to Mr. Mudehart. Approval of other projects are expected within the next few days.

DICTATORSHIP IS LIKELY IN SPAIN

Premier Lerroux to form government, may be the strong man in the dictatorship, although he is not a member of the cabinet.

After a night in which the Madrid revolutionaries seemed to have taken a new lease on life, authorities sought to restore normal conditions "by decree."

They orded all stores, restaurants and other public establishments to reopen immediately, subject to a fine of $2,750 or arrest of the owners for failure to comply.

Guards went from house to house, compelling all residents to open their windows and shutters.

Nevertheless, the general strike, which the government outlawed, went on, with only a few employees returning to their tasks. Madrid was again newspaperless this morning, but it was expected that the conservative organs would soon appear.

Lull In Fighting

Morning brought a temporary lull in the fighting that broke out in Madrid late yesterday, and continued all night in several parts of the city.

Although the ministry of the interior reiterated its optimistic statement that "the revolution has failed completely," more fighting was reported from the Asturias section, Barcelona, Valencia, Oviedo, and several provincial points.

Reports from Barcelona said that tanks shelled dock sheds where syndicalists and anarchists were hiding, burning forty to death. Twenty were killed in street fighting.

Luis Companys, ex-president of the Catalonian parliament, and leader in the ascension of that province, has been sentenced to death by a court martial sitting aboard his prison ship, the cruiser Uruguay, of Barcelona. The cabinet is expected to confirm the court's findings today.

So far there have been no executions. War Minister Diego Hidalgo told International News Service, but other courts martial will begin functioning immediately, and firing squads will begin their deadly work soon afterwards, he said.

late this afternoon, according to Attorney Frank McGuigan, chief of the defense counsel. McGuigan said it was necessary to proceed carefully and examine the testimony in great detail.

A few weeks will pass before the motion can be argued before the Luzerne county court en banc and then a few more before a decision is handed down. Appeals to the state supreme court and the state board of pardons, if necessary, will delay final determination of Edwards' fate still further.

Booby's jailers reported he was bearing up bravely despite the shock of the death sentence and in the absence of any comforting word from Miss Margaret Crain, the music teacher, of East Aurora, N. Y., because of whom he murdered Freda.

ditch. I'll go to Gov. Lehman, if necessary, to prevent any attempt to move my client to New Jersey."

But Attorney General Wilentz refused to admit that there would be any trouble in extraditing Hauptmann. He disclosed that a representative of his office would be in Albany by tomorrow night to confer on procedure with Gov. Lehman. He commented, dryly:

"If Hauptmann is innocent I see no reason why his counsel should oppose extradition. I anticipate no difficulties. We expect to try him for murder."

So far as Bronx District Attorney Foley's plans for trying the suspect in the extortion charge are concerned there was little consolation for Hauptmann in the prosecutor's attitude. If the Bronx district attorney insisted on proceeding with the extortion trial on Thursday Hauptmann would be spared the immediate ordeal of extradition.

No Dismissal Of Extortion

But when Foley was asked whether he would move to dismiss the extortion case, he made this laconic reply:

"Sure. I'll dismiss it after Jersey has electrocuted him."

Although there has been no pause in the routine of preparing for the extortion trial in the Bronx on Thursday, Foley was to be one of the conferees today in Trenton, and there was no doubt that he would co-operate in plans for immediate extradition.

A more definite statement on the identification of the suspect came from Attorney General Wilentz. He announced that Col. Lindbergh had specifically declared Hauptmann's voice to be the same as the voice he had overheard.

It was recalled that Lindbergh, unknown to Hauptmann, had listened to the suspect call out "Hey, Doctor" in different tones during an examination at the Bronx district attorney's office. "Hey, Doctor," was the greeting which the ransom receiver called to Dr. Condon on the night of the ransom payment.

Some angles of the defense strategy began to appear today in New Jersey when it was learned that three detectives employed by William Martin, private investigator, have been following closely in the footsteps of state police and questioning all important witness whom the Jersey authorities have examined.

Council was asked to stay any action until such time as a new proposed schedule could be submitted for their area and then if the rates were not satisfactory a complaint could be filed with the Public Service Commission.

City Demands Records

Mayor Mayne and council opposed any delay and declared that the city's electric engineers, Burns and McDonnell according to the latter, could not conduct the survey properly unless they had access to all of the records.

PRETTY WEDDING IS
EVENT OF MORNING

October is vieing with June in wedding numbers, another very pretty ceremony being performed at 10:45 this morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jones, 606 Croton avenue, their daughter, Ruth E. Jones, becoming the bride of Kenneth E. Dufford, son of Mrs. Minnie Dufford of 201 North Crawford Avenue.

Rev. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church officiated in the presence of the immediate families, hearing the vows exchanged before an embankment of colorful autumn flowers in the living room.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wine-colored chiffon velvet, simply fashioned, on long lines, with high neckline and collar of metallic cloth and long, puffed sleeves, trimmed with metallic cuffs. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

Miss Amelia Evans, of East Palestine, O., was maid of honor, wearing peacock blue with brown accessories, and a corsage of pink rosebuds. John Thele, of Sandusky, O., was best man.

A daintily appointed buffet lunch was served to fifteen guests, after the wedding, the bride's table being centered with a large wadding cake, surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. Bridal white combined with green crystal, were attractive appointments. Aides in serving were Misses Mildred Hay and Katherine Russell.

This afternoon, the bride and groom departed on a trip to Chicago, returning from which they will be at home, after October 16, at 711 Cleveland avenue. For travel, the new Mrs. Dufford wore a navy blue ensemble and blue accessories.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the New Castle high school, the former graduating with the class of 1930, and the latter with the class of 1929.

The bride is a past worthy advisor of the Rainbow Girls. For sometime past she has been identified with Sears-Roebuck company. The groom ts with the W. P. Dufford company.

DAUGHTERS AMERICAN
COLONISTS' MEETING

Daughters American Colonists will open meetings for the new season on Friday, October 12 with an all-day assembly in the Castleton Hotel.

Sessions will open at 11 in the morning with luncheon served at one. Mrs. Morford Throckmorton of Beaver, newly elected regent will preside and many guests are expected from out of the city, as well as New Castle.

TAFFY PULLING Event

Miss Edna Bigley entertained in her home on Bluff street the "We Are Sixes" Sunday afternoon when taffy pulling was the chief pastime.

Later, a tasty luncheon was served by Mrs. Ida Bigley assisted by Margaret Bigley.

W. L. C. MASQUERADE

The members of the W. L. C. club will be entertained at a masquerade Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Pansy Reiber, 1026 Dewey Avenue, with Mrs. Jessie McCann and Mrs. Margaret Boak as associate hostesses.

HAS LUNCHEON AT CLUB

"An Industry of New Castle" was named by the members of The Current Events Circle of 1906 when the roll was called Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Lutton, 124 Richelieu avenue.

Mrs. John Ingham presided over the session, with Mrs. P. L. Hogan, Mrs. Carl Wilson, Mrs. Clyde Saunders, Mrs. S. R. Wilkinson and Mrs. C. E. Book gave the various committee reports, after which the current topics of news were discussed by the group.

Plans were made for a masquerade party Monday, October 22, at the home of Mrs. Charles G. Martin, 226 North Crawford avenue, when Mrs. T. C. Armstrong, Mrs. E. C. Morrow and Mrs. S. R. Wilkinson will act on the committee.

NEW OFFICERS FOR
SHIELDS S. S. CLASS

Mrs. Thomas J. Kelly is the new president of the Margaret Shields Sunday school class, of the First M. E. church, having been elected Monday evening at their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Shields on Garfield avenue. Mrs. Ned Chapman is newly elected secretary and treasurer, also reporter.

The program presented was most interesting one, as it consisted of several musical numbers. Miss Amelia Ruby sang "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise." Miss Fern Cook rendered two violin solos, "Somewhere A Voice Is Calling" and "To A Wild Rose," these being followed by trumpet solos entitled "A Shady Tree" and "I'll Always Be In Love With You" by Miss Betty Noss. Mrs. Ned Chapman played a piano number, "A Venetian Love Song." Several of the girls assisted with tasty refreshments.

The next meeting will be on the third Monday in November, the hostess undecided.

PRETTY WEDDING
VILLA MARIE CHURCH

Monday morning in Villa Marie church, the Rev. Fr. Francke solemnized a pretty wedding when he joined together in matrimony, Miss Mary Amadio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amadio Amadio, 1805 Hamilton Street, and Michael Panella, son of Mrs. Mary Panella, of 1801, South Jefferson street.

The bride looked attractive in a chiffon velvet gown, princess style, with lace belt. Her bouquet was of madonna lilies and lilies of the valley. Miss Rose Ciotti, maid of honor, wore a pastel hue gown with brown accessories, and carried Talisman roses.

Bridesmaids, dressed similarly, and carrying arm bouquets of roses included: Misses Mary Olpriano, Catherine Panella, Hope Landolf, Cora Amadio, Rose Faracane, and Lucille Print. Following the ring ceremony, a delicious dinner was served to members of the immediate families in the groom's home. A reception was held last evening, in the groom's home, South Jefferson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Panella left on Monday evening for a honeymoon to Canada and Niagara Falls. Upon returning the newlyweds will be at home to their friends at 1801 South Jefferson street.

EVENING OF BRIDGE
FOLLOWS PRACTICE

Choir members, O. E. S., 333, met at the home of Miss Harriet Truby on Winter avenue, Monday evening, with Miss Jean Jackson and Mrs. Clifford Probst co-hostesses.

After the usual practice, which was led by Miss Mary Clark, the evening was devoted to games. High score, at bridge, was won by Mrs. Dorothy Clark, and at 500, by Miss Mary Clark. Mrs. Albert Elingensmith was awarded a miscellaneous favor. Refreshments concluded a pleasant evening.

In November, the choir will meet at the home of Mrs. Edward McBride, on Boyles avenue.

Broadhead Circle

Mrs. Jane Patterson, with Mrs. Edith Triplett and Miss Ethel Weaver entertained the Alma Broadhead circle, of the First Baptist church, Monday evening, at the Patterson home, 208 West Grant street.

Miss Charlotte Emery, with Miss Florence Roberts, leading devotions. Mrs. Lillian Cook conducted the lesson on Japan. There were twenty two guests present, among whom was Mrs. Francis Burgoon.

During the social hour, following dainty refreshments were served.

BLANNING-RICHARDS WEDDING OCTOBER 16

October is veiling with June in wedding numbers, another very pretty ceremony being performed at 10:45 this morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jones, 506 Croton avenue, their daughter, Ruth E. Jones, becoming the bride of Kenneth E. Dufford, son of Mrs. Minnie Dufford of 201 North Crawford Avenue.

Rev. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church officiated in the presence of the immediate families, hearing the vows exchanged before an embankment of colorful autumn flowers in the living room.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wine-colored chiffon velvet, simply fashioned, on long lines, with high neckline and collar of metallic cloth and long, puffed sleeves, trimmed with metallic cuffs. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

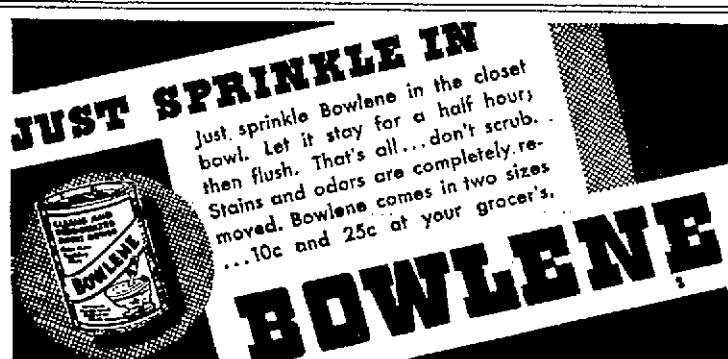

Miss Amelia Evans, of East Palestine, O., was maid of honor, wearing peacock blue with brown accessories, and a corsage of pink rosebuds. John Tieche, of Sandusky, O., was best man.

A daintily appointed buffet lunch was served to fifteen guests, after the wedding, the bride's table being centered with a large wedding cake, surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. Bridal white, combined with green crystal, were attractive appointments. Aides in serving were Misses Mildred Hay and Katherine Rüssler.

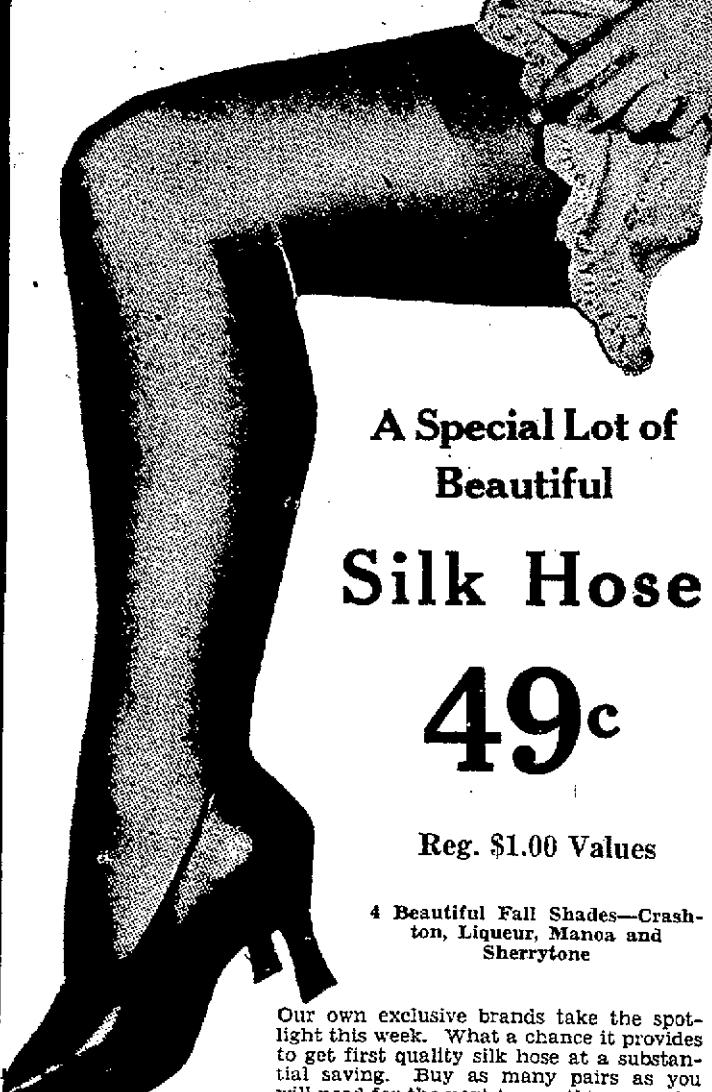

This afternoon, the bride and groom departed on a trip to Chicago, returning from which they will be at home after October 16, at 711 Cleveland avenue. For travel, the new Mrs. Dufford wore a navy blue ensemble and blue accessories.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the New Castle high school, the former graduating with the class of 1930, and the latter with the class of 1929.

The bride is a past worthy advisor of the Rainbow Girls. For sometime past she has been identified with Sears-Roebuck company. The groom is with the W. F. Dufford company.

TOO MANY SWIVEL-CHAIR AIRMEN

TRYING to run the Army air force with swivel-chair pilots who couldn't navigate a plane if their lives depended on it seems as absurd as captaining a swimming team with a man terrified of the water.

Yet the investigating board headed by former War Secretary Baker has found the Army Air Corps loaded down with Brass Hats who have long since exchanged the dangers of the pilot's cockpit for the ease of an office armchair.

There are too many officers in this branch, the board has found, whose flying efficiency is "open to question." As a result all those of fifteen years or more in the service are to be taken for a "rough ride" in the air to test their qualifications, and those who fail will be shunted to some ground branch or retired.

As there are now 486 senior officers in the corps, this move should clear away a lot of dead wood, make possible promotion of many junior officers and improve the morale and the fighting abilities of the air forces. After all it seems only logical that our Army pilots should at least be able to fly.

THE AGE-OLD PASTIME

Although in the downtown districts of our cities the sidewalks are still crowded with pedestrians, it is probably true that walking has become an obsolete pastime in America. The rushing in and out of stores in the shopping districts isn't walking anyway, in the opinion of lovers of that form of physical exercise.

We have lost the feeling of leisure which in former days was so conducive to walking. Even in our motoring we seem to be possessed of the idea that we must hurry to get somewhere, although we may have no particular destination in mind. An Englishman who even during his visit to this country spent much time in walking said of us that the pictures in periodicals representing the occupants of automobiles reclining in luxury and enjoying magnificent scenery did not depict us truly. That is not the way we cover the miles.

He was greatly amused over the fact that during his walking tours he was frequently offered rides by motorists; "they do not seem to understand," he says, "that a man on a walking tour is not in need of vehicular conveyance. They act as if the best thing about walking is giving it up and having a ride."

Obviously the automobile does not permit of sauntering. When the road is good there comes the irresistible impulse to make the most of it, which to nearly all drivers means anywhere from 35 to 60 miles an hour. And consequently there is lacking the opportunity for quiet enjoyment of the passing landscapes; and lacking too is the inducement for reflection and restful meditation which walking, either by one's self or with agreeable companions, makes almost inevitable. In its own way motoring has its pleasures, and on the whole they are no less than those of walking. And perhaps in the stress of modern life it is only natural that we should have taken to the thrill-producing form of exercise.

UNLIKELY

We refuse to believe that the federal government will accept the proposal that it build three giant dirigibles for regular scheduled round-the-world passenger service.

Despite the liberality with which millions of dollars are being poured out for this and that cause, some deserving and others that can serve no useful purpose, it seems more than doubtful if officials would be willing to go so far afield in questionable activities as to use public funds in the way proposed by Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics. The Mitchell proposal would involve an expenditure of $17,000,000 or more. The plan calls for construction of two dirigibles of the Zeppelin type, an all-metal dirigible and an air terminal on the Eastern seaboard.

development of lighter-than-air craft. The government already has The proposal was characterized as being designed mainly for the spent many millions of dollars for such a purpose with disappointing results. Its experiments with dirigibles in the navy have proved a failure, in the view of high navy officials. "INNOCENCE" AT GENEVA

Those innocent souls who seem to picture the delegates of the League of Nations as sitting around a table doing their utmost regardless of the nations they represent, to accomplish something for the good of humanity, ought to get some enlightenment from the newspaper reports of the meetings held at Geneva.

One of the fights in the League Council has been between the friends of China and Turkey as to which nation shall occupy China's chair around the council table. Was the question debated on the merits from the standpoint of humanity? Most certainly it was not.

China was in and Turkey wanted the seat. China was supported by Great Britain and her dominions in the League while Turkey had the backing of France and the Little Entente. John Bull was for China because he feared that if the Turk got the seat he might line up his vote for Russian projects in the future and so handicap the spread of British ideas about the Dardanelles. France and her allies backed Turkey because France is now flirting with Russia, since Poland has been wavering in her allegiance to Paris. There you are. Can you imagine just how your Uncle Samuel would fare in that sort of international poker game? Our idea is that he would be lucky if he got back home in his shorts.

ARE YOU THE WISECRACKER OF YOUR CLIQUE?

Wisecrackers are bores. The punster may think he is life of the party, but he is considered a pest and avoided when possible. It is not difficult and does not indicate mental capacity to "pun."

Those who indulge in punning seem not to know when squelched.

In fact, they seem to possess a particularly thick hide, and an attempt to silence them whets their appetite for more puns.

In nearly all crowds there is the so-called "funny fellow."

None laughs so heartily as he at his own fun.

In his punning he has no respect for age, or position.

He is trying to attract attention to himself and his wisecracks.

For that is the desire of a punster to be in the limelight.

Usually it is the only accomplishment that the fellow has by which he can attract attention. It matters little to him whether it be favorable or adverse, just so he can be noticed.

If you are a punster, you are more laughed at than laughed with.

People are tired of your chatter.

Why not turn attention to some worthy gift and become more popular.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THAT CONSTITUTION

To determine whether Bush D. Holt, twenty-nine, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator from West Virginia, would be eligible to his seat, if elected, Edwin Haisley, Secretary of the Senate, made a search of musty records to see if there had been any parallel cases previously.

The Constitution provides that Senators must be at least thirty years old to be eligible. Mr. Holt will not be thirty until next June, six months after Congress convenes in January. However, Secretary Haisley discovered that the Senate had violated the Constitution in this respect.

Henry Clay of Kentucky was permitted to take his seat in the Senate before he was thirty.

The other two violators were in the case of Armand Mason of Virginia and John Henry Eaton, of Tennessee.

Weekly Health Talks

"Physical culture has proved to be a boon to many. It has also been the downfall of numerous over-enthusiastic persons. There are some men who illogically conclude that because a little of something is good, more of it will be excellent. They do not distinguish between the qualitative and the quantitative factors involved. And thus the crash finally arrives," states Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health.

"For example, a man of 45 suddenly woke up to the cumulative effects of his past indiscretions. He had been over-enthusiastic in his eating, drinking, smoking, and unenthusiastic in his exercising, sleeping and homage to nature in general. He visited a physician. The physician among other things recommended physical culture at a nearby gymnasium.

"However, being one of those chaps who go at things hard and fast, he began his physical culture with a spasmodic fashion, worked up to a system, and finally made a passion of it, and this, without giving his medical adviser or the athletic instructor the real facts in the case.

"What this fellow actually did was to become an obsessed muscle admirer. He became proud of his magnificent biceps, his waistline, his shoulders and thigh muscles. In short, he made an athlete of himself at 46 and funeral six months later.

"Of course, this victim represents the exception. On the other hand, there are many men past 50 whose self-admiration for big muscles drive them on to an habitually excessive use of the various muscle developing machines to be found in any well equipped gymnasium or to an overdose of the resistance method made so justly popular by the late Walter Camp. The result in the man's face. Each time Pete pasted a small piece of paper over the cut to stop the bleeding. In due time the massacre was over.

The victim handed Pete a one dollar bill and said to him: "Keep the change. It is worth a dollar to be shaved by a genius like you: Why, man, you are a barber, a butcher and a paper-hanger combined."

"It follows that whether he becomes a bathroom athlete by way of setting-up exercises, or a devoted follower of the highly mechanized gymnasium, the man who is past middle-age should so employ such activities to do him good rather than harm.

"By large, the violent exercises so appreciated by the young athlete has little place in the living scheme of the average man of 50 or more. Gymnasium exercises, even setting-up activities, may be beneficial to many in this class, provided they are moderately indulged in. But there is a comparatively small group for whom even mild

TRYING to run the Army air force with swivel-chair pilots who couldn't navigate a plane if their lives depended on it seems as absurd as captaining a swimming team with a man terrified of the water.

Yet the investigating board headed by former War Secretary Baker has found the Army Air Corps loaded down with Brass Hats who have long since exchanged the dangers of the pilot's cockpit for the ease of an office armchair.

There are too many officers in this branch, the board has found, whose flying efficiency is "open to question." As a result all those of fifteen years or more in the service are to be taken for a "rough ride" in the air to test their qualifications, and those who fail will be shunted to some ground branch or retired.

As there are now 486 senior officers in the corps, this move should clear away a lot of dead wood, make possible promotion of many junior officers and improve the morale and the fighting abilities of the air forces. After all it seems only logical that our Army pilots should at least be able to fly.

THE AGE-OLD PASTIME

Although in the downtown districts of our cities the sidewalks are still crowded with pedestrians, it is probably true that walking has become an obsolete pastime in America. The rushing in and out of stores in the shopping districts isn't walking anyway, in the opinion of lovers of that form of physical exercise.

We have lost the feeling of leisure which in former days was so conducive to walking. Even in our motoring we seem to be possessed of the idea that we must hurry to get somewhere, although we may have no particular destination in mind. An Englishman who even during his visit to this country spent much time in walking said of us that the pictures in periodicals representing the occupants of automobiles reclining in luxury and enjoying magnificent scenery did not depict us truly. That is not the way we cover the miles.

He was greatly amused over the fact that during his walking tour he was frequently offered rides by motorists; "they do not seem to understand," he says, "that a man on a walking tour is not in need of vehicular conveyance. They act as if the best thing about walking is giving it up and having a ride."

Obviously the automobile does not permit of sauntering. When the road is good there comes the irresistible impulse to make the most of it, which to nearly all drivers means anywhere from 35 to 60 miles an hour. And consequently there is lacking the opportunity for quiet enjoyment of the passing landscapes; and lacking too is the inducement for reflection and restful meditation which walking, either by one's self or with agreeable companions, makes almost inevitable. In its own way motoring has its pleasures, and on the whole they are no less than those of walking. And perhaps in the stress of modern life it is only natural that we should have taken to the thrill-producing form of exercise.

UNLIKELY

We refuse to believe that the federal government will accept the proposal that it build three giant dirigibles for regular scheduled round-the-world passenger service.

Despite the liberality with which millions of dollars are being poured out for this and that cause, some deserving and others that can serve no useful purpose, it seems more than doubtful if officials would be willing to go so far afield in questionable activities as to use public funds in the way proposed by Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics. The Mitchell proposal would involve an expenditure of $17,000,000 of more. The plan calls for construction of two dirigibles of the Zeppelin type, an all-metal dirigible and an air terminal on the Eastern seaboard.

The proposal was characterized as being designed mainly for the spent many millions of dollars for such a purpose with disappointing results. Its experiments with dirigibles in the navy have proved a failure, in the view of high navy officials. Secretary Swanson told the federal aviation commission, to which body the Mitchell proposal was submitted, that the navy general board was opposed to lighter-than-air craft and would not recommend replacing the Akron, destroyed in a plunge into the Atlantic in 1933.

Sees Benefit To Auto Dealers

Chairman Vesper of National Code Authority says Ninety Percent Approve It

CODE IS HERE TO STAY, HE ASSERTS

In a letter received by Ray F. Hall, local code authority of the automobile dealers, more than 90 per cent of the 31,000 automobile dealers of the United States have expressed their opinion that the past year's operations under their code has proven beneficial and is here to stay. This information is presented by F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, and chairman of the national code authority, on the anniversary of the first year of operation under the code.

"It is significant," Mr. Vesper adds, "that our code affecting as it does the welfare and pocketbooks of millions of people has to date been accepted by the public, almost without exception. When it is realized that the purchase of an automobile is considered the second most important purchase made by the individual in points of dollars, this public acceptance of the dealer code speaks highly of its fairness."

Mr. Vesper states that numerous tests have been made among the members of the automobile trade in various sections of the United States, throughout the past few months, in order to learn the reaction of dealers and to determine its benefits and handicaps following almost a year of actual operations under the code. In every instance, upwards of 90 per cent of the dealers have expressed confidence and satisfaction with the code and desire its continuance.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well as Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vibrant and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

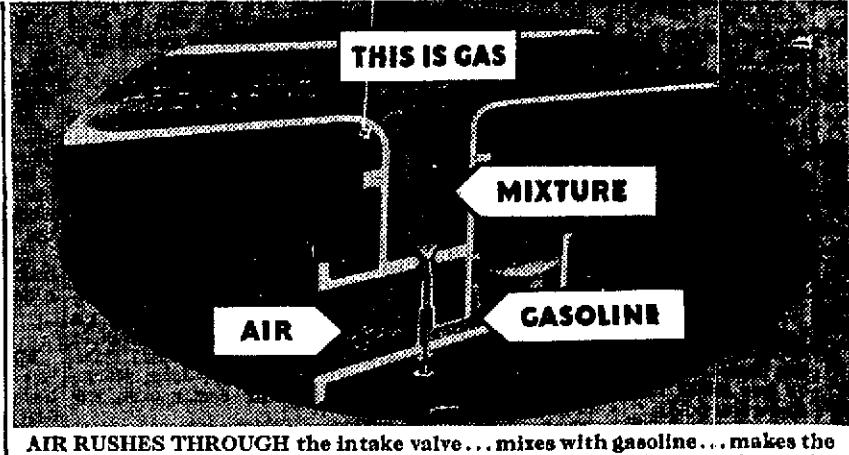

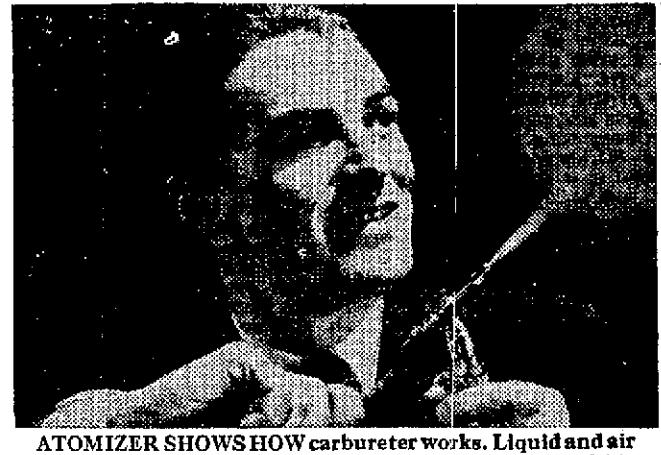

Those subject to sick headaches, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Chairman Vesper Of
National Code Authority Says Ninety Per

It

CODE IS HERE TO STAY, HE ASSERTS

In a letter received by Ray F. Hall, local code authority of the automobile dealers, more than 90 per cent of the 31,000 automobile dealers of the United States have expressed their opinion that the past year's operations under their code has proven beneficial and is here to stay. This information is presented by F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, and chairman of the anniversary of the first year of operation under the code.

"It is significant," Mr. Vesper adds, "that our code, affecting as it does the welfare and pocketbooks of millions of people, has to date, been accepted by the public, almost without exception. When it is realized that the purchase of an automobile is considered the second most important purchase made by the individual in points of dollars, this public acceptance of the dealer code speaks highly of its fairness."

Mr. Vesper states that numerous tests have been made among the members of the automobile trade in various sections of the United States, throughout the past few months in order to learn the reaction of dealers and to determine its benefits and handicaps following almost a year of actual operations under the code. In every instance, upwards of 90 per cent of the dealers have expressed confidence and satisfaction with the code and desire its continuance.

FIELD DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The National Industrial Conference Board, a statistical organization maintained by large industrial corporations, announced recently that replies to a questionnaire made by more than 5,000 editors of newspapers and farm journals throughout the United States, indicated a desire for less government in business.

The board stated the questionnaire was sent to 12,076 editors, and replies were received from 5,050 whose members had a total circulation of 24,943,677.

On the question "Does public opinion in your community favor control of the management of private business by government bureaus or officials?" the board stated the replies were: Yes, 256, or 5.2 per cent; no, 4,565, or 92.5 per cent; doubtful, 122, or 2.3 per cent.

Replies were 23.5 per cent for 7.6, against, and 2.9 per cent doubtful on the question of fixing selling prices by the government for farm products. The same question applied to factory products was 17 per cent for, 80.8 per cent against, 2.2 per cent doubtful.

The replies stood 17.6 per cent for, 79.6 per cent against and 2.7 per cent doubtful on government restriction of acreage and designation of kind of crops planted.

On the question of government going into business in competition with power corporations replies showed 26.5 per cent in favor, 71.8 per cent against and 2.7 per cent doubtful. The same question as applied to "other industry" was divided 3.6 per cent for, 94.9 against, 1.5 doubtful.

"Would public opinion in your community favor further increase in the banking system?" showed 35.6 per cent of answers in favor, 59.7 per cent against, and 4.8 per cent doubtful.

More than 94 per cent of replies stated the profit motive was essential to business progress. More than 70 per cent were against giving officials of the government sole power to change the purchasing value of the dollar.

There were 58.2 per cent of replies against compulsory government unemployment insurance, but 64.6 per cent favored a compulsory government system of old age pensions.

"Does public opinion in your community favor further increase in the national debt?" showed 7.3 per cent favoring, 89.1 against, 3.6 doubtful.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

BETHANY GUILD HAS DINNER-PROGRAM

Members of Bethany Guild, of the First Christian church, and their guests, gathered Monday evening, in the home of their leader, Mrs. G. S. Bennett, on Park avenue, for a covered dish supper.

The occasion had a double significance, in that it celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the Women's Missionary society and the first anniversary of the Bethany Guild.

In commemoration, a large birthday cake, with the figure 60 outlined in pink icing, made by Mildred Miller, centered the table, at which were seated the several members and the following guests: Helen Houck, Mrs. Richard Houck, Eva Bricker, Agnes Webster and Eleanor Craig.

After supper, the meeting opened with Emma Patton, presiding, and leading the devotions. The program was conducted by Lydia Farmer who had as her subject, "Greater Things Than These." A playlet entitled "Aunt Martha Van Winkle Wakes Up" was offered with Mary Wagner portraying the role of Aunt Martha, Mildred Miller as Mrs. Blake and Mildred McClelland as Barbara Blake.

A service of remembrance was presented by Betty Pollard giving a toast to the past, Dorothy Gerlock to the present, and Irene Pollard to the future. Music concluded the delightful evening.

November 13 is the date of the next meeting at the home of Emma Patton, 305 North Jefferson street, with Laura Snyder program chairman, and Virginia Bowman, leader.

Postpone Meeting
The B'nai B'rith meeting and card party called for Wednesday evening, October 10, at the Cosmo club, has been postponed until next week. Further details of the next meeting will be announced later.

PRESIDENTS' TEA AT TEMPLE ISRAEL

The New Castle Section National Council of Jewish Women will open the club year with a president's tea in Temple Israel Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Every local Jewish woman's organization will be represented and take part in the program. Councils from Beaver Falls, Ellwood City, Youngstown, U., Butler and Sharon will be represented.

Mrs. Sam Edelstein president of the Beth Shalom Sisterhood will offer the prayer and Mrs. L. Marks will conduct the business session, followed by a program with Mrs. Florence Slovan of the Ladies Jewish Relief, singing a solo; Freda Shifman with a reading, will represent Hadassah; the Temple Israel Sisterhood will have a song.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Charles M. Buerger president of the Pittsburgh section.

Tea will conclude the afternoon being served by the New Castle Section with Mesdames M. Feuchtwanger, A. E. Wachs, P. Winnick, L. Zieve, B. Ziesel, D. Silverman, L. Sandler, E. Sherkman and M. Schoenberger acting as hostesses.

BIRTHDAYS HONORED AT EVENING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Scheidemann, both of whose birthdays occur this week, were honored at a party Monday evening at their West Madison avenue home. The affair was a complete surprise to the honored couple.

Hostesses of the occasion were Miss Ethel Scheidemann, Mrs. Edna Walker and Mrs. G. O. Scheidemann. The evening was spent informally and proved most enjoyable to the gathering of friends and to the honored guests. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Weigle and son Howard, Mrs. Edward McMillin and sons Stanley and Edward, of Castlewood, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Scheidemann, and daughter, Viola, Mr. and Mrs. John Reed and son and Mrs. Anna Rice, of East New Castle, Mr. and Mrs. William Buquo, of Ellwood City and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Patterson, of Pittsburgh.

Surprise Party
Mrs. John Stimple of East Main street, entertained at a birthday surprise party, Saturday evening, in honor of her daughter, Miss Mable Stimple.

Music, games, a special mandolin solo by Alvie Stimple and a duet by Finley Matthews and Howard Rodgers filled in the hours of the evening in a delightful manner. The honored guest received a number of beautiful personal gifts.

Later, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Verna Sankey.

Dinsmore Class Meets

Sixteen members and guests of the Harry C. Dinsmore Bible class of the First U. P. church attended the October meeting of the class in the home of Harold C. Ramsey, 419 Clemmore boulevard, last night.

After devoting themselves to business, in which plans for the class, role in Rally Day on Sunday, October 14, and plans for a Halloween party for late this month were discussed, the members enjoyed a period of games. Named on the Halloween party committee were Merrill Young, chairman; Ruth Horton, Mrs. Gerald McElhaney, Sarah Loudon, Gerald Book and Harold Ramsey.

Refreshments were served to the guests at late hour by the host's mother, Mrs. George C. Ramsey.

Guests last night included Mrs. Harry Dinsmore, Miss Lucille Emery and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McElhaney.

The class gathers next for its regular meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay G. Rudolph, 221 Sheridan avenue, on November 12.

Masquerade Party

The season of witches and goblins is fast approaching and many masquerades, which feature this time of the year, have been planned by clubs and organizations and Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Comstock of Portersville, entertained at a masquerade in their home.

Ghosts peered from spooky corners in the house as the motley array of guests arrived, representing fairy tale characters and many others. After a period of wondering who the guests were, the masks were removed and the group enjoyed dancing and cards.

Prizes for 500 were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Claire Gorley. The group included Mrs. W. J. Klingsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Gorley, Mrs. Sam Rhoer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clarke and Peggy Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas, Mrs. Ana MacDonald, U. G. Harper, Jessie Harper, Mrs. Emma McKissick, Miss Anna Patterson and the hosts.

A buffet lunch was served at the close of festivities.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's Defense Secret

No Newspapermen Admitted To Hearing As Defense Is Presented

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—That there will be no publicity to the defense of Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt against charges she is "unfit" to rear her 10 year old child, Gloria, was evident today as courtroom doors were closed again to reporters on orders of supreme justice John F. Carew.

Pressed by newspapermen for admittance to the sensation-studded hearing, Justice Carew remarked:

"I'll straighten the public out on this case when it is over."

This observation was in line with Justice Carew's procedure yesterday when, following the court session, he outlined to newspapermen a deleted summary of what transpired at the hearing.

Two discharged servants of Mrs. Vanderbilt who had full say in public before the hearing was turned into a star-chamber affair. One had recounted an alleged incident linking the name of Mrs. Vanderbilt with Prince Gottfried Hohenlohe, while the other described an alleged incident concerning Mrs. Vanderbilt and the Marchioness of Milford Haven. It was this latter testimony that barred the press.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was near collapse from the prolonged strain late yesterday.

Methodist Night At Calvary Church

Loud Speakers Installed All Over Church For Crowd Overflowing Auditorium

One of the largest crowds in the brief history of the Calvary Presbyterian church attended the Monday evening services of the Young People's Bible conference being conducted this week in the church at East New Castle.

"Methodist Night" was being observed and about one-third of the audience belonged to that denomination. During the Bible study hour the Rev. J. R. Loughner explained explicitly why one of Jesus' disciples said "Lord, Teach Us to Pray."

The Rev. W. D. Herrstrom was the evangelistic speaker, taking as his subject "When a Nation Turns Its Back on God." Spurred song periods were conducted by Rev. Bernie Osterhouse of Ellwood City.

A bible was presented Ethel Sellers of Butler for having come the greatest distance to the meeting.

The services were enriched by vocal selections of the Welker Bible Class.

Christian Missionary Alliance night will be featured this evening, as well as Nazarene night. The Bible study hour will be at 6:30 followed by preaching at 7:30 with Dr. Herrstrom's subject "Who Made God?"

Loud speakers have been installed in the basement of the church and over the main entrance so that no one will be turned away or miss a bit of the service.

"No More Dynamite for Me!"

And that's What
YOU would Say,
After Making the
"Liquid Test"
Described Here

If, by making one little change, you could relieve a condition of sluggishness within 24 hours, and feel about 100% better—would you do it?

David Wadsworth did. You can do the same. All that is necessary is to get your bowels in the right condition. But you can't do that by doing them violence.

Doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives. They've seen the damage sometimes done by highly concentrated drugs in the form of pills or tablets! They know that a properly made liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative) does not do this harm. And they use a liquid laxative to relieve the bowels, because the dose can be easily regulated.

To Relieve Bowels
Constipated or sluggish bowels can never be corrected with violent purges. They can be safely relieved with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without forming the laxative habit.

And that's What
YOU would Say,
After Making the
"Liquid Test"
Described Here

If, by making one little change, you could relieve a condition of sluggishness within 24 hours, and feel about 100% better—would you do it?

David Wadsworth did. You can do the same. All that is necessary is to get your bowels in the right condition. But you can't do that by doing them violence.

Doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives. They've seen the damage sometimes done by highly concentrated drugs in the form of pills or tablets! They know that a properly made liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative) does not do this harm. And they use a liquid laxative to relieve the bowels, because the dose can be easily regulated.

To Relieve Bowels
Constipated or sluggish bowels can never be corrected with violent purges. They can be safely relieved with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without forming the laxative habit.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative made from fine herbs, pure pepsin, senna and cascara. It is most agreeable to take. The comfortable bowel movement from Syrup Pepsin is a joyful relief!

Ask any druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and make the "liquid test."

Believe 46,000 Possible Vote For This County

In the light of the registration figures compiled and presented in The News on Monday, the question has arisen, "Just how many votes are possible in Lawrence County?" The answer seems to indicate not less than 46,000 and possibly more, judging from the total registered in the rural districts.

Totals on the rural registration show that 23,076 men and women are on the registry books of the boro and townships. This is probably every voter with a few scattering exceptions. Assuming that New Castle has as many people as the balance of the county there would be no less than that in New Castle. Hence the total vote possible in the county runs over 46,000.

Nothing like this has ever been cast in the history of the county. In 1928 the total vote ran close to 27,500, and even this high total was short nearly 19,000, judging from the figures available. Like their city cousins the rural residents do not get out and vote on election day, the average vote of the rural districts being 13,000.

In New Castle the registration shows better than 13,500 this year. Considered a good registration by many, but actually only about 60 per cent of the possible total. On election day the number voting will be under that of the registration so it seems safe to estimate that the vote cast on election day will be fifty per cent or under, of the possible voting total.

THE NEWS BY MAIL, ONE YEAR, $5.00

Believe 46,000 Possible Vote For This County

In the light of the registration figures compiled and presented in The News on Monday, the question has arisen, "just how many votes are possible in Lawrence County?" The answer seems to indicate not less than 46,000 and possibly more, judging from the total registered in the three districts.

Total on the rural registration show that 23,076 men and women are on the register books of the boroughs and townships. This is probably every voter with a few scattering exceptions. Assuming that New Castle has as many people as the balance of the county, there would be no less than that in New Castle. Hence the total vote possible in the county runs over 46,000.

Nothing like this has ever been cast in the history of the county. In 1928 the total vote ran close to 27,500, and even this high total was nearly 19,000, judging from the figures available. Like their city cousins the rural residents do not get out and vote on election day, the average vote of the rural districts being 13,000.

In New Castle the registration shows better than 13,500 this year. Considered a good registration by many, but actually only about 60 per cent of the possible total. On election day the number voting will be under that of the registration so that it seems safe to estimate that the vote cast on election day will be fifty per cent or under, of the possible voting total.

PREPARE TO TRY CASH RELIEF PLAN IN STATE

Will Experiment In Philadelphia

Plan To Be Inaugurated About Middle Of Next Month

STATE OFFICIALS SEE ADVANTAGES

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—About the middle of next month, Pennsylvania is to begin a brand new experiment in governmental relief distribution in this state, the cash dole.

The experiment will be initiated with the 75,000-odd families on relief rolls in Philadelphia, with the possibility that if the plan works it may be broadened to include other parts of the state.

Agitation for cash relief instead of food, fuel and clothing orders has been insistent since the beginning of governmental relief. Demands have come from many directions, growing louder with the passage of time.

Cite Advantages

Officials of the state emergency relief board cite three advantages of the cash dole over the present supply order system they are:

1. Cash relief gives more independence to the individual family and permits personal management of the family budget.

2. Cash relief is less expensive to distribute because it eliminates the necessity of a large clerical force to handle orders for food, fuel, clothing stores and medical treatment.

3. Cash relief will permit, for the first time, partial payment of rents to help relieve the burden of landlords who have had their properties occupied by indigent families, at an actual loss to the owners who receive no revenue but must meet taxes and water rents.

Mechanically, the new setup for Philadelphia has not reached the point yet where it can be determined how much cash the average family will receive.

On Basis Of Minimum Needs

Payments will be made on a basis of minimum needs, taking into consideration whatever income the individual family may have in addition to relief and the number of persons in the family. It is expected, however, that payments will be ample to permit many families to make partial rent payments to meet their landlords' taxes and other fixed expenses.

Possibly the most often advanced argument against cash relief is the expression of fear that the recipients will maladminister the expenditure of their money so that they will not be properly cared for.

Relief officials have countered with the reply that a few families now receiving supply orders sell or trade articles obtained in this way for cash or other non-essential things. This applies only to a handful of cases. In the average county and relief officials believe this handful represents about the portion who would not judiciously handle cash payments.

Catalonia's Revolt Brief. Assorted Propaganda. Bad News For Book-worms. One Queer Little Town. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CATALONIA, Spanish state with an ancient objection to rule by the central Spanish government, feeling as Ireland did for so long in the kingdom of Great Britain, officially declared herself independent of Spanish rule, and severe fighting and bloodshed followed. The sad Catalonian song of liberty beginning "Weep, Weep, Catalonia," corresponds to the "Wearing of the Green" in Ireland.

Catalonia's revolt was short-lived. Last night its leaders had escaped across the French border and loyal troops had occupied Barcelona. Sporadic fighting continued in the provinces, however.

Much trouble ahead for Spain, apparently. The peasants have been living on rations, and their deepest emotions have been outraged by government action in regard to the Catholic church. If the peasants join with the rebels in another outbreak, Spain will offer a fertile field for the seeds of Bolshevism, or whatever comes along.

LOS ANGELES reports industrious "Reds" trying to corrupt sailors of the United States Navy. One plan seeks out young, attractive university girls that have not been elected to Sororities. They take advantage of their heat state of feelings to make Communists of them and send them to make Communists of sailors.

Propaganda work is also done in high schools by Communists. One newspaper urges Negro students to "rise and demand Negro teachers in the high schools."

Special attention is paid to young college graduates lacking jobs that have enlisted in the Navy. Their feelings also were hurt and they are expected to respond to the song, "Arise, Ye Prisoners of Starvation," although men in the Navy are well fed.

NEBRASKA possesses an interesting small town named Funk. Before prohibition came, Funk was proud to say it contained not a saloon, a church or a jail, and wanted not one of those things, the theory being presumably that, without a saloon or jail, a church was not necessary.

Times have changed, and now Funk thrives on money from beer and tobacco license fees. That money plus the income from a gas-line pipe line that runs through the village, and a poll tax, meet all local expenses, making taxation unnecessary.

Two hundred dollars raised by taxation last year is still in the treasury. Funk having no use for it. Very different from New York, Chicago and other cities.

OHIO REPUBLICANS, wondering how they can take seats in Congress from Democrats, decide "not to attack the new era as such." In fact, they will praise some things. They will only point out that Democrats may mean well, but "know nothing about the farmers' needs."

Democrats know enough about farmers' needs to give the farmers a thousand million dollars of public cash. They pay farmers well for NOT planting things, and that kind of "farm knowledge" will appeal to farmers, even coming from a Democratic professor, who may not know on which side of the cow you sit when you milk her.

MONEY CHANGES its so-called "value" and those supposed to control it do not always realize how it is changing.

We rejoice over increased government receipts, forgetting that the government is now taking in fifty or sixty-cent millions. In England, the pound sterling, normally worth more than 124 francs, sells for 74 francs, a drop of forty per cent, and in England gold sells above 142 shillings an ounce, as at a premium of sixty-nine per cent.

WHAT IS happening to English money is happening to our money, and those "best minds," who think they know all about finance, are bitterly worried.

There is, however, the comforting knowledge that they would be worried even more bitterly if money were more expensive, even less plentiful. It is hard enough to get now. Senator Thomas says he believes in printing more money because "if there were more of it, it might be easier to get some of it."

PREPARE TO TRY CASH RELIEF PLAN IN STATE

Will Experiment In Philadelphia

Plan To Be Inaugurated
About Middle Of Next Month

STATE OFFICIALS SEE ADVANTAGES

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—About the middle of next month, Pennsylvania is to begin a brand new experiment in governmental relief distribution in this state, the cash dole.

The experiment will be initiated with the 75,000-odd families on relief rolls in Philadelphia, with the possibility that if the plan works it may be broadened to include other parts of the state.

Agitation for cash relief instead of food, fuel and clothing orders has been insistent since the beginning of governmental relief. Demands have come from many directions, growing louder with the passage of time.

Cite Advantages

Officials of the state emergency relief board cite three advantages of the cash dole over the present supply order system they are:

1. Cash relief gives more independence to the individual family and permits personal management of the family budget.

2. Cash relief is less expensive to distribute because it eliminates the necessity of a large clerical force to handle orders for food, fuel, clothing, shoes and medical treatment.

3. Cash relief will permit, for the first time, partial payment of rents to help relieve the burden of landlords who have had their properties occupied by indigent families, at an actual loss to the owners who receive no revenue but must meet taxes and water rents.

Mechanically, the new setup for Philadelphia has not reached the point yet where it can be determined how much cash the average family will receive.

Basis Of Minimum Needs

Payments will be made on a basis of minimum needs, taking into consideration whatever income the individual family may have in addition to relief and the number of persons in the family. It is expected, however, that payments will be ample to permit many families to make partial rent payments to meet their landlords' taxes and other fixed expenses.

Possibly the most often advanced argument against cash relief is the expression of fear that the recipients will maladminister the expenditure of their money so that they will not be properly cared for.

Relief officials have countered with the reply that few families now receiving supply orders sell or trade articles obtained in this way for cash or other non-essential things. This applies only to a handful of cases in the average county and relief officials believe this handful represents about the portion who would not judiciously handle cash payments.

Catalonia's Revolt Brief.
Assorted Propaganda.
Bad News For Bookworms.
One Queer Little Town.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CATALONIA, Spanish state with an ancient objection to rule by the central Spanish government, feeling as Ireland did for so long in the kingdom of Great Britain, officially declared herself independent of Spanish rule, and severe fighting and bloodshed followed. The sad Catalonian song of liberty beginning "Weep, Weep, Catalonia," corresponds to the "Wearing of the Green" in Ireland.

Catalonia's revolt was short-lived. Last night its leaders had escaped across the French border and loyal troops had occupied Barcelona. Sporadic fighting continued in the provinces, however.

Much trouble ahead for Spain, apparently. The peasants have been living on rations, and their deepest emotions have been outraged by government action in regard to the Catholic church. If the peasants join with the rebels in another outbreak, Spain will offer a fertile field for the seeds of Bolshevism, or whatever comes along.

LOS ANGELES reports industrious "Reds" trying to corrupt sailors of the United States Navy. One plan seeks out young, attractive university girls that have not been elected to Sororities. They take advantage of their hurt state of feelings to make Communists of them and send them to make Communists of sailors.

Propaganda work is also done in high schools by Communists. One newspaper urges Negro students to "rise and demand Negro teachers in the high schools."

Special attention is paid to young college graduates lacking jobs that have enlisted in the Navy. Their feelings also were hurt and they are expected to respond to the song, "Arise, Ye Prisoners of Starvation," although men in the Navy are well fed.

THIS IS real news from the new $4,000,000 library building given to Columbia University by Edward S. Harkness, who spends his money nobly and intelligently.

In this building the rooms in which

On Court House Hill

Stacked books are kept will be "air conditioned" in space provided for 3,000,000 volumes. The air conditioning, shutting out light and dust, worst enemies of books, will prolong the lives of the books, discouraging all bookworms except the two-legged kind that come to read, not eat.

WHAT A difference between air-conditioning a magnificent fireproof library, and the act of ancient, plios gentlemen of various religions that ordered the destruction of great ancient libraries that can never be replaced.

A Mohammedan ruler ordered a library burned because it contained what is in the Koran it was not necessary and if it contained anything else it should be burned.

NEBRASKA possesses an interesting small town named Funk. Before prohibition came, Funk was proud to say it contained not a saloon, a church or a jail, and wanted not one of those things, the theory being presumably that, without a saloon or jail, a church was not necessary.

Times have changed, and now Funk thrives on money from beer and tobacco license fees. That money plus the income from a gas-line pipe line that runs through the village, and a poll tax, meet all local expenses, making taxation unnecessary.

Two hundred dollars raised by taxation last year is still in the treasury. Funk having no use for it. Very different from New York, Chicago and other cities.

OHIO REPUBLICANS, wondering how they can take seats in Congress from Democrats, decide "not to attack the new era as such." In fact, they will praise some things. They will only point out that Democrats may mean well, but "know nothing" about the farmers' needs."

Democrats know enough about farmers' needs to give the farmers a thousand million dollars of public cash. They pay farmers well for NOT planting things, and that kind of "farm knowledge" will appeal to farmers, even coming from a Democratic professor, who may not know on which side of the cow you sit when you milk her.

MONEY CHANGES its so-called "value" and those supposed to control it do not always realize how it is changing.

We rejoice over increased government receipts, forgetting that the government is now taking in fifty or sixty-cent dollars. In England, the pound sterling, normally worth more than 124 francs, sells for 74 francs, a drop of forty per cent, and in England gold sells above 142 shillings an ounce, as at a premium of sixty-nine per cent.

WHAT IS happening to English money is happening to our money, and those "best minds," who think they know all about finance, are bitterly worried.

There is, however, the comforting knowledge that they would be worried even more bitterly if money were more expensive, even less plentiful. It is hard enough to get now.

Senator Thomas says he believes in printing more money because "if there were more of it it might be easier to get some of it."

In the estate of Nora Grace Miller, for whom Samuel V. Badger was guardian Judge Hildebrand has handed down an opinion in which he orders Badger to pay Miss Miller $870.52 she having become of age.

In the case of George V. Chapman trustee, use Margaret V. Rankin, use of E. Levinson against William M. Nunn, with notice to Katherine C. Walker, surviving ward of Earl V. Walker, deceased, Frances Connor and others, Judge Hildebrand has handed down an opinion in which a rule granted on a petition to stay a writ is discharged and the sheriff is directed to proceed with a writ of execution.

In the case of the commonwealth against V. A. Smith, before an alderman, Judge Hildebrand has handed down an opinion in which it is found that the evidence did not warrant a conviction of malicious mischief and the defendant is discharged. The case was one in which Smith had cut down a hedge fence between his property and that of Edna Maxler, a neighbor, who brought a charge of malicious mischief. The court finds that the alderman failed to follow the procedure outlined in the act in the imputation of a fine and in fixing the alternative jail sentence. The evidence further showed that there was no malicious intent on the part of Smith, as the exact location of the line between his property and that of the Maxler property is in dispute.

East Side streets. A majority of the motorists had no knowledge of their arrest until they received a letter through the mail notifying them of their infraction of the law and a notification that they had to appear at the police station. So far two motorists have gone to jail in default of fines. One auto who placed a fine for a hearing on a charge of speeding failed to appear Saturday in police court. The campaign is far from complete. Judging from the attitude in police circles, two of the three cruiser cars purchased not long ago are used almost continually at night to patrol the city and to seek erring motorists. The motorcycle policeman is on the job during the daytime.

Mayor Mayne declared yesterday that he proposes to enforce the city ordinance which prohibits the unnecessary blowing of automobile horns. The statement was made after he jarred the feeling of a newlywed couple in Washington street. His Honor was in East Washington street when he heard a continuous honking of an auto horn and saw the auto containing the happy couple run through a red light. "The trouble is that the police have permitted these people to get away with them. Just because they are newlyweds gives them no right to run the horn continuously or run through a red light" he declared.

Secret Witness In Insull Case

Former Employee Of Brokerage Office Will Testify Against Insull Today

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—A former employee of Halsey Stuart & Co., several of whose officers are on trial with Samuel Insull, was ready to take the stand today before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson as a surprise witness in the government's case against the deposed utilities czar and sixteen co-defendants.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green kept the identity of the surprise witness a secret.

Thus far the trial has consisted of little more than the laying of a foundation of books and records upon which the government expects to prove its charge of mail fraud in the sale of corporation securities Co. stock.

Glassport Not For Annexation

(International News Service) MCKEESPORT, Pa., Oct. 9.—Annexation of their community to the city of McKeesport today appeared to be the last wish of Glassport borough's solons.

A resolution placing the borough council on record as opposing the annexation was adopted when presented by the unemployed council of Glassport. Council eliminated a section of the resolution denouncing Mayor George H. Lisle. McKeesport, 45, being hostile to labor.

Three Await Trial For Bank Robbery

(International News Service) SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 9.—Three Cleveland men awaited trial today under an indictment returned by the federal grand jury for the $3400 holdup of the First National bank of Three Springs, Huntington county, in August.

The accused men, Ralph Nace, Edgar Nace and Addison Mease, will be tried under the new law governing robberies in federal reserve banks.

The trio, police claim, made their getaway after locking the cashier and assistant cashier in a vault at the bank.

Kiwanians Start Business Sessions

(International News Service) WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 9.—Business sessions at the seventeenth annual Pennsylvania District Kiwanis convention got underway here today with registration expected to exceed 600 before the convention closed tomorrow.

District Governor Robert W. Shepard, of Erie, presided at the business sessions which were held in St. Stephen's Parla house.

The annual golf match at the Irem Temple Country club held the attention of most of the delegates yesterday.

The convention dinner will be served tonight at Irem Temple.

Unemployed Men Maintain Vigil

Five Men In McKees Rocks Maintain Vigil At Relief Office Seeking Clothes

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—Admitting they were a little hungry, five unemployed men of McKees Rocks continued their siege of that suburb's relief station waiting for clothing for their families and hoping their kin would soon appear with food.

The quintet, after a night of dozing on the hard chairs of the station's waiting room, appeared tired.

Andrew Barrett, spokesman for the men, fathers of 17 children, said:

"When we came in yesterday, we were informed we would have to wait our turn before we could get clothing for our children. We decided that was just what we would do. The supervisor said we could wait a month if we wanted to, and we'll be here a month if we have to wait that long."

Demand Clothes

Chief of Police Michael Matsey said the men were not radicals nor reds and that they had good reputations. He said they can stay at the relief station as long as they want to as far as his department is concerned.

Barrett said he and his companions had no complaint against relief supplies for food but said they would like some clothes so their children can attend school. The men were laid off their RWD jobs August 15.

HOOSIER IMPROVED, HOSPITAL REPORTS

Elmer Hoosier of Neshannock avenue, who was found unconscious a few nights ago, and removed to the New Castle hospital, is reported showing improvement, officials of the hospital stated today. According to reports, the man took sick on one of the city streets. He will probably return to his home today.

MAN FATALLY POISONED (International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—Poison liquor was blamed by the coroner's office today for the sudden death of Anthony Tonesky, 42, a taxidermist.

A Negro from whom he is said to have purchased the liquor was taken into custody and charged with violating the state liquor laws.

MACHINES STOLEN

DIZZY DEAN IS CARDINALS HOPE IN FINAL GAME

the night in a local hospital, his injured knee encased in ice packs in an attempt to ease the pain brought on by the wound inflicted by Paul Dean's spikes. More than that he not only announced himself as being ready to catch but nominated Edson Auker as his pitcher, much to the distress of his ball club. Frankie Frisch, meantime, did what was expected and announced that Dizzy Dean was prepared to come back off Sunday's defeat and pitch his arm and heart away for honor, for country and for Sam Breadon.

Expect Lots Of Pitchers

According to both clubs, the result probably would be one of those deathless events in which pitchers come and go in great profusion.

Dean not only had been overpitched before the game but was to ask that razorback frame of his to respond

for this final effort after a single day's rest.

As for Auker, he was unimpressive as a relief pitcher in one game and unimpressive even in victory in another and now must make the supreme effort only because the Tigers have reached the big test of their lives without pitchers.

Labor Convention For 5 Day Week

Also Roars Approval Of Projected Six Hour Day

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—On the heels of its roaring approval of the 30-hour week, the American federation of labor convention today was to plunge into three spectacular conflicts, two within its own ranks, the other with a common "enemy."

The delegates roared up their sleeves and went to work on more than 200 resolutions, two dealing with internal warfare, the proposal to enlarge the federation's executive council and the order to the building trades department to seat delegates from three ousted unions.

But for another resolution, attacking President Roosevelt's appointment of S. Clay Williams, tobacco magnate, to the new NRA setup, all guns were to have but the one target—Williams, who is accused of being "inconsiderate and unfair" to labor.

William Green, A. F. of L. president, carried the conclave to its highest pitch of excitement thus far in championing the 6-hour day and 5-day week, with no reduction in wages.

"We will not be stopped," he told the delegates. "The 30-hour week is the only solution of America's unemployment problem."

KING ALEXANDER DIES FROM BULLET

parent he was intending only to kill his king at all costs, but in the wild fusillade that accompanied his attack Barthou sustained his mortal wound and Georges was struck in the thigh.

MARSEILLE, France, Oct. 9.—King Alexander of Yugoslavia, iron-handed dictator of his Balkan nation, was shot and wounded today when a group of assassins fired upon him soon after his arrival here on a state visit.

The king's injuries were reported to be serious, but no information regarding his condition was forthcoming half an hour after the shooting.

Si Shells Fired

The visiting monarch was riding in an automobile with Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, and other French officials when six revolver shots rang out in quick succession.

Early reports said Barthou also was wounded, but these could not be confirmed immediately.

It was likewise reported that a French general was wounded in the fusillade.

The youthful king and his distinguished French escort had reached one of the principal squares of Marseille when the shots rang out.

Mounted troops which were preceding the royal automobile immediately surrounded it, while troops rushed into the crowd, arresting a dozen suspects.

Scenes of wildest confusion prevailed. The crowd fell back as the soldiers rushed in attempting to seize the culprits. Many were endangered by flying hoofs as the horses of mounted soldiers reared at the sound of the shots.

Several persons in the crowd said they saw both the king and Barthou stamp forward before troops surrounded the car and cut off their view.

Friendly Visit

The shooting marred arrangements made months ago for a state visit designed to solidify the friendly relations between France and Yugoslavia, which have continued interrupted despite a recent realignment in the Balkans, which has placed Alexander's kingdom closer to Germany and further away from Italy and France.

In his significant speech at Milan only on Saturday, Premier Mussolini alluded in no uncertain terms to the strained relations between Italy and Yugoslavia, precipitated by a long series of attacks by the Yugoslav press upon the bravery of Italian soldiers in the World War.

Alexander, who is only 46 years old, shares with King Zog of Albania the distinction of being the only crowned dictator in Europe.

Labor Convention For 5 Day Week

Also Roars Approval Of Proposed Six Hour Day

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—On the heels of its roaring approval of the 30-hour week, the American federation of labor convention today was to plunge into three spectacular conflicts, two within its own ranks, the other with a common "enemy."

The delegates rolled up their sleeves and went to work on more than 200 resolutions, two dealing with internal warfare, the proposal to enlarge the federation's executive council and the order to the building trades department to seat delegates from three ousted unions.

But for another resolution, attacking President Roosevelt's appointment of S. Clay Williams, tobacco magnate, to the new NRA setup, all guns were to have but the one target—Williams, who is accused of being "inconsiderate and unfair" to labor.

William Green, A. F. of L. president, carried the concave to its highest pitch of excitement thus far in championing the 6-hour day and 5-day week, with no reduction in wages.

"We will not be stopped," he told the delegates. "The 30-hour week is the only solution of America's unemployment problem."

KING ALEXANDER DIES FROM BULLET

(Continued From Page One) parent he was intending only to kill his king at all costs, but in the wild fusillade that accompanied his attack Barthou sustained his mortal wound and Georges was struck in the thigh.

MARSEILLE, France, Oct. 9.—King Alexander of Yugoslavia, iron-handed dictator of his Balkan nation, was shot and wounded today when a group of assassins fired upon him soon after his arrival here on a state visit.

The king's injuries were reported to be serious, but no information regarding his condition was forthcoming half an hour after the shooting.

Six Shots Fired

The visiting monarch was riding in an automobile with Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, and other French officials when six revolver shots rang out in quick succession.

Early reports said Barthou also was wounded, but these could not be confirmed immediately.

It was likewise reported that a French general was wounded in the fusillade.

The youthful king and his distinguished French escort had reached one of the principal squares of Marseille when the shots rang out.

Mounted troops which were preceding the royal automobile immediately surrounded it, while troops rushed into the crowd, arresting a dozen suspects.

Scenes of wildest confusion prevailed. The crowd fell back as the soldiers rushed in attempting to seize the culprits. Many were endangered by flying odds as the horses of mounted soldiers reared at the sound of the shots.

Several persons in the crowd said they saw both the king and Barthou stamp forward before troops surrounded the car and cut off their view.

Friendly Visit

The shooting marred arrangements made months ago for a state visit designed to solidify the friendly relations between France and Yugoslavia, which have continued interrupted despite a recent realignment in the Balkans, which has placed Alexander's kingdom closer to Germany and further away from Italy and France.

In his significant speech at Milan only Saturday, Premier Mussolini alluded in no uncertain terms to the strained relations between Italy and Yugoslavia, precipitated by a long series of attacks by the Yugoslav press upon the bravery of Italian soldiers in the World War.

Alexander, who is only 46 years old, shares with King Zog of Albania the distinction of being the only crowned dictator in Europe.

Chemist Dies Of Poison Solution

Philadelphia Doctors Unable To Save Life Of Despondent Jobless Chemist

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Rodney R. Hickman, 31 year old jobless chemist died today from a self-administered potent poison concoction despite the efforts of doctors to save his life.

"You can't save me. I'm going to die," Hickman taunted doctors as they worked over him in Presbyterian Hospital yesterday.

"I know all about poison. When I took the stuff, I made sure no doctors will fix me up. Inside of three days I'll be dead."

Putting their knowledge of remedies against Hickman's familiarity with deadly chemical poisons, doctors worked all day to save his life while Hickman defied them.

Hickman told police that he had been out of work 16 months. "I got fed up with all of it. I've had enough of life," he explained.

Sunday night he purchased the poison with his last money, went to his room and compounded the drug which killed him.

The young chemist's case closely paralleled the attempted suicide of John L. Bauer, youthful chemist of Pittsburgh. Bauer recently swallowed a self-concocted "poison" and went to a Massachusetts hospital defying doctors to save him—they did.

Local CCC Recruits Taking Health Exams

Medical examinations were to be given today in Butler to 30 Lawrence county youths who have applied for service in the government's Civilian Conservation Corps. With the approval of doctors, the group will be to a U. S. Army conditioning camp tonight for training for forest work.

Accompanying the local boys to Butler this morning was W. Earl Leslie, manager of the Federal State Employment office and his aides. Cars were furnished locally for the trip.

Announcement of successful applicants will be made tomorrow.

Three Seriously Hurt In Crashes, One Driver Held

Sunday School And Missionary Societies Will Join In Two Day Sessions

TOMORROW will mark the opening of the two day Sunday school and Missionary Convention which is to convene in the local Primitive Methodist church, South Mill at Mainland street. This is to be a District convention and ministers and delegates of western Penn. will attend.

The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock with the devotional service in charge of Rev. S. S. George, of Sutersville, Pa. This session will be given over to the business of the District Sunday schools.

In the afternoon at 1:30 the devotions will be conducted by Rev. C. Tyrell of Industry, Pa. At 2:30 Rev. S. D. Knecht will address the convention and at 3:30 the main address of the afternoon will be given by the Rev. C. H. Heaton of this city.

The night service will be in charge of Rev. S. D. Knecht and the convention sermon will be preached by Rev. J. A. Tinker of Swissvale, Pa. This service will be at 7:30.

Tonight a pre-convention service will be held in the church and Rev. T. Cook former pastor of the church and now of Youngstown, O., will preach.

The public is welcome to attend all the services of the conventions.

September Beer Sales Decrease

Slight Decline From Consumption Of Beer For September In 1933

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Oct. 9—September beer consumption in Pennsylvania slumped from the figure for the same month a year ago, the monthly tax report of the Department of Revenue showed today.

Bear taxes collected during the month were $18,736 as compared to $545,025 for September, 1933. Bear taxes since the advent of 3.2 per cent beer total $8,379,000.

Payments of liquor taxes most of which are derived from the $2 per gallon floor tax, totaled $2,225,204 to the end of September. Distillers have been granted extensions to December 31, 1934 to pay the floor tax imposed on stocks on hand when repeal became effective. The floor tax levy is expected to total about $12,000,000.

College Play Casts Selected

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 9—Casts for three one act plays which will be produced in the Westminster College little theatre on October 18 and 19 have been announced by Professor A. T. Cordray, director.

"The Man Who Thought of Everything" will be directed by Helen McLaughlin, Mercer. The cast includes: Jane Carlisle, Steubenville, O.; Norine Bontrager, Cleveland, O.; and Douglas Smiley, Union City.

Jane Holland, Bellevue will direct "Wistful Waiting." Those in the cast are: Maxine Jacobs, McKees Rocks; Helen Towner, Mt. Lebanon; Eunice Dickson, Roselle Park, N. J.; Jean Ritter, Altoona; Dorothy Tinker, Pittsburgh; Jane MacMillan, Alliquipia and Grace Kildare, Pittsburg.

McGinnis Hazlett, Tarentum, will direct "Sham." Those in the cast include: Florence Heintz, Sharon; Melvin Moorhouse, New Bedford and Clem Lausberg, Tarentum.

Players in "Sham" and "Wistful Waiting" are members of the class in dramatics production, while the cast of "The Man Who Thought of Everything" was chosen from a group of 50 students who tried out for little theatre productions.

Millinery has gone international with Russian toques, Norwegian and Dalmatian silhouettes, which give new impetus to the off-the-face movement.

Cardinals Even Up Series With Detroit 4 To 3

Paul "Daffy" Dean Pitches And Wins Second Game Of World Series

SCHOOLBOY ROWE IS BATTED HARD

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NAVIN FIELD, DETROIT, Oct. 8.—St. Louis declared itself back in the battle for the big prize Monday by defeating the Detroit Tigers in a throbbing, tingling sixth game of the World's series, 4 to 3, thus evening the series at three games each.

A great crowd of nearly 45,000 groaned in anguish as the home favorites went down before the pitching of Paul Dean and the efficient hitting of the Cardinals who ground out ten hits to give Schoolboy Rowe his first defeat of the series.

Incidentally, it was Paul Dean's second victory, a victory that may well mean more than a mere triumph today.

Dizzy Dean Again

With the Dizzy Dean scheduled to pitch again Tuesday the result may have provided the big break of the series that has been nothing but one break after another since it started.

Just as in every other game played so far, drama coursed back and forth today like the ebb and flow of the surf. The early part of the game was all St. Louis. Paul Dean pitching so well for four innings that only one ball was hit out of the infield. The Tiger run in the third was a sheer gratuity, came as a result of a pass to White and his attempt to steal second.

Frisch Drops Ball

He was out by 10 feet, but in the tangle of arms and legs Frisch dropped the ball for an error.

Then while Frisch and the ball lay on the ground ten feet apart, White leaped to his feet and raced to third. He scored on Cochrane's infield hit to Collins, the play was very close at first base and Cochrane was spiked in a collision with Paul Dean.

Meantime the Cardinals had been doing very well for themselves.

Rothrock doubled to right with one out in the first and after Owen had speared Frisch's liner, Medwick drove the run in with a single to right. The Cards continued to hit. Rowe but the Tigers defense continued to make dazzling plays. In the second, Goslin backed up against the stands to pull in Delaney's smash.

Card Score Two

A few moments later, White made a great one-hand play to retire Durocher. In the next inning Gehringen came through with two fine stops on Martin and Frisch. The Cards however finally broke through the Detroit defense to score two in the fifth. Durocher opened with a hit and took second on Dean's sacrifice. Martin then singled to left scoring Durocher.

Martin took second on the throw to the plate which got by Cochrane and was scored as an error for Goslin. This placed Martin on third and he came home when Rogell took Rothrock's grounder, and for reasons not quite clear, decided to make the play at first instead of at the plate.

Score Deadlocked

This made it look pretty safe for the Cards, but the Detroit Tigers batting order never seemed to be through. The pestiferous White came up to open the sixth and walked on four pitched balls. He went to third on Cochrane's single, Mundiazak, Vincent and Leonelli. For games call 2578-J and ask for Bill.

could do was a puny tap to the box which promptly rolled through Dean's legs for an error, White scoring and all hands being safe.

Goslin attempted a sacrifice but Delaney threw the advance man out at third on a close play. Gehringen advancing to second on the play. He went to third after the catch on a long fly to Rogell. Then Greenberg drove in the tying run with a single to left.

Dean Wins Own Game

This made it look very ominous for the Cardinals but they quickly struck back from a source least expected. With one out in the seventh, Durocher doubled against the bleacher wall in right center, after which Dean won his own game by poking a single through Greenberg's ganging legs.

It turned out to be the winning run although the Tigers did hand in both the seventh and eighth. First open the former with a short fly that fell safe between Durocher, Medwick and Orsatti for a double. Rowe neatly sacrificed him to third but he was cut down at the plate on a fast play by Durocher and Delaney on White's infield tap. White then ended the inning by going out.

Ruth Is After Manager's Job

Babe Ruth Says He Has Played Last Game As Player, Talks With Ruppert

LOCAL GRIDDERS IN FOREIGN FIELDS

New Castle isn't represented by a Fox or Reider at Pitt. Christian at Purdue, or an Ostrosky at Tech this year but there are many local players performing on various teams throughout the country. The majority of them have stuck to the tri-state district to continue their football careers, however.

Slippery Rock leads in the number of local players on a team with four. Art Sillman and Nickie Uran and Nocera perform on the line. Sillman and Dinsmore have been starters in all the games played by the Teachers this year.

Nickie Uran's younger brother, Johnny, is down at Salem, having transferred from Slippery Rock after one year on the Green and White squad.

Up in Mercer county we find two former New Castle high linemen taking care of the guard posts for Grove City College. Andy Beres is playing left guard with George Binder on the other side of the line.

Westminster has one New Castle boy on this year's squad, Harold Berry. He has been a steady performer at right squad for the Titans all year having played an active part in the John Carroll, Slippery Rock and Fordham games. During his high school career, Harold was an end on the football team and a miler on the track squad. Had he not continued his track career he probably would have been an even better miler than he is football player.

The big Bambino said he wants a job as manager. He doesn't care which league or what club he's in just so he can be the boss and quit "pinch hitting" for Gomez and Murphy and sitting around on a bench as a Saturday and Sunday player.

Ruth denied the statement attributed to him that he would demand either McCarthy's job or a release from the Yankees.

Ruppert Satisfied

Regarding his recent conference with Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, in which he was reportedly to have laid down an ultimatum, he issued the following statement:

"Before leaving New York I had a meeting with Col. Ruppert and asked: 'Colonel, are you satisfied with McCarthy for next year?' The Colonel replied that he was, and I said: 'that suits me. That's all I wanted to know.'

I did not say that it is a case of McCarthy or me.' This much is certain, I want to remain in baseball but I will not sign a player's contract next year with any club."

He expressed no hope that Ruppert might give an outright release which would enable him to take a managerial job with any club in either league. He admitted that his plans are still more or less indefinite.

Only One Football Game In Lawrence County Saturday

Ellwood Will Play Braddock, All Other Teams Away From Home

Lawrence County High School football teams with one exception will spend another week-end on foreign soil.

Shenango High will go to Mercer Friday, October 12 for a grid battle with Crowell's Mercer High grididers.

Union High will go to Grove City Friday afternoon for their annual battle with Coach Joe Hartman's eleven.

Bessemer High will play New Brighton High at New Brighton on Saturday, October 13.

New Castle High will be at Washington, Pa., Saturday, so it looks as if the football fans of New Castle and Lawrence County will be out of town either Friday or Saturday if they want to see football games.

Westminster College football team will play their fourth game of the season at Edinboro Teachers College.

The exception in the case will be Ellwood City High with Bradock at Ellwood City Saturday.

Managers Fail To Name Hurlers Till Game Time

Frisch And Cochrane Undecided Upon Today's Pitchers, Both Crippled

DEAN VS. CROWDER LOOKS LIKE BEST

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—The dizzietest, dallest world series ever known will wind up today in a riot of personal feuds, with Cardinals and Tigers trying to sock each other and with both sides wholeheartedly damning Umpire Brick Owens from here to Shanghai and back. To say nothing of a few verbal bricks tossed at Umpire Bill Klein's way just for luck.

With such a setting, anything may happen and probably will, on this single game hinges a world's championship, the major share of a king's ransom and perhaps a managerial head. The head in question belongs to Frankie Frisch and rumor has it that if he loses this series, he loses his job.

Dean Wants Chance

It's a natural spot for Dizzy Dean, the dizzy spot for a dizzy lad in the dizzies of all series—and he insists on putting himself in it.

He's 20 pounds underweight. He's pale and anemic looking. His eyes are sunken in his head and his cheeks are hollow. He admits his fast ball has flown and he's lost his curve.

Yet he insists on pitching because he has a fighting heart and a great competitive spirit and because he knows his buddies are relying on him to bring home the bacon.

The Cardinals have waxed on a steady diet of Deans—Dizzy and Daffy—and they still think they can't get too much of them. But what's one man's meat is another man's poison and the Dean diet has been pure poison for the Tigers.

Crowder Or Auker

With all men available even though the game with Fordham resulted in some minor bruises, Coaches Bill and Tom Gibbons are pointing the Westminster football players to Saturday's game with Edinboro State Teachers College at Edinboro.

Scouts who watched Edinboro play California Teachers on Saturday report that Socki Harrison has a light, shifty team at Edinboro, and that the Teachers have passing and punting ability which compares with much larger schools.

The Titans have played three contests, winning the first, with Slippery Rock, and losing hard games to John Carroll in Cleveland and Fordham in New York. With Edinboro scheduled for this week, a better idea of the strength of the Titans will be had for the two teams are about evenly matched.

Next Saturday's game with Edinboro takes on added significance in the light of Thiel's victory over Geneva last Friday night. The Titans will have a chance to buy tickets in advance. There will not be any adult tickets sold here for the game. The tickets at Washington will cost 50 cents.

The student tickets can be bought at the High School for 25 cents. There will not be any student tickets sold at the gate in Washington.

No Adult Tickets For Game Will Be Sold In This City

Here's a testimonial from a man who didn't like his own medicine.

Last summer, we waited on a gentleman for a suit. Lost him, too. "Your clothes are first rate, but I think I can do better in price."

This week . . . same man . . . wearing his bargain suit and looking exceedingly sedate . . . came back . . . we use quotes:

"I was a chump for walking out on you boys. I saved $4 and look at me. I've had my medicine . . . and I didn't like the taste of it. Now trot out a Winter Co. suit . . . I'm thru' with being kidded at the office."

No need to say "trot" to a good horse.

SLIPPERY ROCK TO TEST GROVE CITY SATURDAY

Coach Bill Amos Displeased With Work Of Team Against Holbrook

GROVE CITY, Oct. 9—Dissatisfied with the showing of the Grove City girders in the opening game, Coach Bill Amos has in progress heavy program of work in preparation for the Slippery Rock game on Saturday. Veterans played poorly on defense, and linemen failed to protect the backs on the attack, so Amos is concentrating his attention on the varsity squad this week.

Bobby Gross speedy little half-back who has been nursing an injured shoulder was kept out of the opening game, but is working this week and will play against Slippery Rock. None of the starting players were injured and Amos is bearing down hard on the regulars in the face of the hard game expected Saturday.

From the ability shown by sophomore substitutes in the final stages of the Holbrook game the veterans and ample warning that their jobs are in danger. With only Verne Smith remaining in the game a reserve line-up gave a fine performance Saturday and it is quite possible that Amos will make a few changes in his starting squad.

The quarterback problem is still puzzling on a Crimson coach who tried three youngsters at the position Saturday. In Orris Gross and Shoch, he has three small, fast backs who are a constant threat, and with Smith for power and Wilson for blocking, the ball carrying department

Mickey Cochrane May Not Play In Today's Battle

Spike Injury May Force Tiger Manager Out Of Series, Hayworth In Reserve

PITCHING CHOICES ARE UP IN AIR

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Due west by north, a brief mile from the centre of the town, a great stadium awaited today the coming of the seventh game of the 1934 world series and a moment so theatrical that baseball seldom has known its like. Forty-five thousand rabid souls were to be there this afternoon for this ultimate and final meeting between the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers, the pay-off and winner-take-all game that will decide at last and forever which is the better of the two very extraordinary ball clubs.

Cochrane-Rowe Hurt

An acute contrast, there was—and is—the hushed quiet of a hospital room where the manager, captain, catcher, hitter and spark of an American League champion was—and is—tossing restlessly. Mickey Cochrane was badly spiked in the knee during yesterday's 4 to 3 defeat for the Tigers, squaring the series at 3-all.

In addition, there was the story of Joe E. Brown, the movie comedian who is supposed to have shaken hands with Mr. Rowe, the great athlete, before yesterday's game, thereby causing the latter great inconvenience and anguish. It seemed that Joe E. Brown is one of those vigorous handshakers and, unaccustomed as the Schoolboy was, it simply came under the head of a dastardly deed. Anyhow, the Schoolboy was forced to go to a hospital for treatment.

Briefly, it only needed a touch like this to establish the 1934 series as the final and absolute pinnacle in silliness.

Today, what? Frankly, nobody knows. Cochrane says he will play. The doctors say he can't. Between the two, a reasonable answer is available. It is to the general effect that, if he plays, he's gone. The Tigers apparently are to go into this most important of all baseball games without the man who made them what they are or with a cripple behind the plate. Either way seems to spell disaster.

In any case, his injury constituted a tremendous break for St. Louis, which seemed to need all too few at this moment.

Dean Or Hallahan

It had two of its best. Dizzy Dean or Bill Hallahan, to bring back against anything that Detroit might be able to find on the end of the bench. Auker won on Saturday and still looked the part of a chump pitcher. Crowder was beaten again, Rowe pitched yesterday and was beaten. Managers Fail To Name Hurlers Till Game Time

Frisch And Cochrane Undecided Upon Today's Pitchers, Both Crippled

DEAN VS. CROWDER LOOKS LIKE BEST

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—The dizzies, daffiest world series ever known will wind up today in a plot of personal feuds, with Cardinals and Tigers trying to sock each other and with both sides wholeheartedly damning Umpire Brick Owens from here to Shanghai and back. To say nothing of a few verbal brickbats tossed Ed umpire Bill Klem's way just for luck.

With such a setting, anything may happen and probably will, on this single game hinges a world's championship, the major share of a king's ransom and perhaps a managerial head. The head in question belongs to Frankie Frisch and rumor has it, if he loses this series, he loses his job.

Dean Wants Chance

It's a natural spot for Dizzy Dean—a dizzy spot for a dizzy lad in the dizzies of all series—and he insists on putting himself in it.

He's 20 pounds overweight. He's pale and anemic looking. His eyes are sunk in his head and his cheeks are hollow. He admits his fast ball has flown and he's lost his curve.

Yet he insists on pitching because he has a fighting heart and a great competitive spirit and because he knows his buddies are relying on him to bring home the bacon.

The Cardinals have waxed on a diet of Deans—Dizzy and Daffy—and they still think they can't get too much of them. But what's one man's meat is another man's poison and the Dean diet has been pure poison for the Tigers.

Crowder Or Auker

With so much dough at stake the players usually have the final word in selecting the deciding pitcher. Therefore, Frisch and Cochrane may be forced to pitch Dizzy and old general Crowder. The Tigers have confidence in the general and strangely enough, they have none in young Auker although he won one game for them in this series.

Scouts who watched Edinboro takes on a number of local players on Saturday report that Socks Harrison has a light, shifty team at Edinboro, and that the Teachers have passing and punting ability which compares with much larger schools.

The Titans have played three contests, winning the first, with Slippery Rock, and losing hard games to John Carroll in Cleveland and Fordham in New York. With Edinboro scheduled for this week, a better idea of the strength of the Titans will be had for the two teams are about evenly matched.

Next Saturday's game with Edinboro takes on a significant in the light of Thiel's victory over Geneva last Friday night. The Titans play Thiel before the annual homecoming crowd here a week from Saturday and expect the hardest battle from the Lutherans in recent years.

Bob Arrowsmith, Erie, quarterback, reported to the squad this week after being out since early season because of a bad throat infection. His presence will bolster the Titan backfield, for it will give Coach Gibbons two quarterbacks and allow him to concentrate on passing.

Edinboro has alternated at quarter and full, on the fullback post, alternating with Ralph Clark, freshman fullback prospect.

A pair of Jims, Sotus and Herbold are in the backfield down at Bethel. Sotus, after a year layoff, is back for his second season on the Bethel squad. Herbold, although never active in football

Gate Receipts Climbing Toward One Million Mark

(International News Service) DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Gate receipts of the 1934 world series will run well over a million dollars.

And it is safe to say that the gross would have totaled twice as much had there been room to pack the rabid fans into Navin Field and Sportsman's Park.

Indications today were that this year's series, running the full limit of seven games, was one of the most profitable in the last ten years.

A total of 44,551 fans paid to see the sixth game yesterday, bringing the total series attendance to 240,000 persons who paid $893,178. If today's game nets a similar amount, and the crowds that jammed the entrance to Navin Field this morning gave ample indication that it would, the total will be around $1,050,000.

Cardinals Even Up Series With Detroit 4 To 3

Paul "Daffy" Dean Pitches And Wins Second Game Of World Series

SCHOOLBOY ROWE IS BATTED HARD

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NAVIN FIELD DETROIT, Oct. 8.—St. Louis delayed itself back in the battle for the big prize Monday by defeating the Detroit Tigers in a throbbing, tingling sixth game of the World's series 4 to 3, thus evening the series at three games each. A great crowd of nearly 45,000 groaned in anguish as the home favorites went down before the pitching of Paul Dean and the efficient hitting of the Cardinals who ground out ten hits to give Schoolboy Rowe his first defeat of the series.

Incidentally it was Paul Dean's second victory, a victory that may well mean more than a mere triumph today.

Dizzy Dean Again

With the Dizzy Dean scheduled to pitch again Tuesday the result may have provided the big break of the series that has been nothing but one break after another since it started.

Just as in every other game played so far, drama coursed back and forth today like the ebb and flow of the surf. The early part of the game was all St. Louis, Paul Dean pitching so well for four innings that only one ball was hit out of the infield. The Tiger run in the third was a sheer gratuity, came as a result of a pass to White and his attempt to steal second.

Frisch Drops Ball

He was out by 10 feet but in the tangle of arms and legs Frisch dropped the ball for an error.

Then while Frisch and the ball lay on the ground ten feet apart, White leaped to his feet and raced to third. He scored on Cochrane's infield hit to collins, the play was very close at first base and Cochrane was spiked in a collision with Paul Dean.

Meantime the Cardinals had been doing very well for themselves.

Rothrock doubled to right with one out in the first and after Owen had speared Frisch's liner, Medwick drove the run in with a single to right. The Cards continued to hit Rowe but the Tigers defense continued to make dazzling plays. In the second, Goslin backed up against the stands to pull in Delaney's smash.

Cards Score Two

A few moments later, White made a great one-hand play to retire Duorcher. In the next inning Gehring came through with two fine stops on Martin and Frisch. The Cards however finally broke through the Detroit defense to score two in the fifth. Duorcher opened with a hit and took second on Dean's sacrifice. Martin then singled to left scoring Duorcher.

Martin took second on the throw to the plate which got by Cochrane and was scored as an error for Goslin. This placed Martin on third and he came home when Rogell took Rothrock's grounder, and for reasons not quite clear, decided to make the play at first instead of at the plate.

Score Deadlocked

This made it look pretty safe for the Cards but the Detroit Tigers batting order never seemed to be through. The pestiferous White came up to open the sixth and walked on four pitched balls. He went to third on Cochrane's single, putting the issue square up to Gehring. The best Gehring could do was a puny tap to the box which promptly rolled through Dean's legs for an error, White scoring and all hands being safe.

Goslin attempted a sacrifice but Dolance threw the advance man out at third on a close play. Gehring advancing to second on a single. He went to third after the catch on a long fly to Rogell. Then Greenberg drove in the tying run with a single to left.

Dean Wins Own Game

This made it look very ominous for the Cardinals but they quickly struck back from a source least expected. With one out in the seventh, Duorcher doubled against the binner wall in right center, after which Dean won his own game by poking a single through Greenberg's gangling legs.

It turned out to be the winning run although the Tigers died hard in both the seventh and eighth. Fox opened the former with a short fly that fell safe between Duorcher, Medwick and Orsatti for a double. Rowe nearly sacrificed him to third but he was cut down at the plate on a fast play by Duorcher and Delaney in White's infield tap. White then ended the inning by going stealing.

Motion Pictures To Be Shown Sportsmen

Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association To Meet Tonight

Members of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association and all persons interested in game and fish have the opportunity tonight of seeing motion pictures of game life in Pennsylvania according to President Odds.

He said that arrangements have been made with Mr. Thompson who is affiliated with the State Game and Fish Commission to lecture and also show pictures of game life at the Armory, near the West Washington street bridge, tonight.

The meeting, which starts at 8 p.m., is free. During the meeting a report of the field trials, Saturday, will be presented.

CROTON BUCS WIN

The Croton Bucs won by forfeit from the Wabash A. C. last Sunday when the latter team failed to show up for a scheduled game. The Croton team is coached by Pia and contains many star performers such as Aven, Pavia, Malley, Ross, DePlato, Mundiazak, Vincent and Leonelli. For games call 2578-J and ask for Bill.

PITCHING CHOICES ARE UP IN AIR

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Due west by north, a brief mile from the centre of the town, a great stadium awaited today the coming of the seventh game of the 1934 world series and a moment so theatrical that baseball seldom has known its like. Forty five thousand rabid souls were to be there this afternoon for this ultimate and final meeting between the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers, the pay-off and winner-take-all game that will decide at last and forever which is the better of the two very extraordinary ball clubs.

Cochrane-Rowe Hurt

As an acute contrast, there was—and is—the hushed quiet of a hospital room where the manager, captain, catcher, hitting and spark of an American League champion was—and is—tossing restlessly. Mickey Cochrane was badly spiked in the knee during yesterday's 4 to 3 defeat for the Tigers, squaring the series at 3-all.

In addition, there was the story of Joe E. Brown, the movie comedian who is supposed to have shaken hands with Mr. Rowe, the great athlete, before yesterday's game, thereby causing the latter great inconvenience and anguish. It seemed that Joe E. Brown is one of those vigorous handshakers and, unaccustomed as the Schoolboy was, it simply came under the head of a dastardly deed. Anyhow, the Schoolboy was forced to go to a hospital for treatment.

Briefly, it only needed a touch like this to establish the 1934 series as the final and absolute pinnacle in silliness.

Today, what? Frankly, nobody knows.

Cochrane says he will play. The doctors say he can't. Between the two, a reasonable answer is available. It is to the general effect that, if he plays, he won't. The Tigers apparently are to go into this most important of all baseball games without the man who made them what they are or with a cripple behind the plate. Either way seems to spell disaster.

In any case, his injury constituted a tremendous break for St. Louis, which seemed to need all too much at this moment.

Dean Or Hallahan

It had to of its best. Dizzy Dean or Bill Hallahan to bring back against anything that Detroit might be able to find on the end of the bench. Auker won on Saturday and still looked the part of a clump pitcher. Crowder was beaten since. Bridges, a slight man, pitched magnificently on Sunday and can hardly be asked to return at this early date and try again.

Rowe pitched yesterday and isn't seen since. Bridges, a slight man, pitched magnificently on Sunday and can hardly be asked to return at this early date and try again.

Regarding his recent conference with Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, in which he was reported to have laid down an ultimatum, he issued the following statement:

"Before leaving New York I had a meeting with Col. Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, in which he was reported to have laid down an ultimatum, he issued the following statement:

"I did not say that it is a case of McCarthy or me." This much is certain, I want to remain in baseball but I will not sign a player's contract next year with any club."

He expressed no hope that Ruppert might give an outright release which would enable him to take a managerial job with any club in either league. He admitted that his plans are still more or less indefinite.

At their overnight selections, the Cardinals' pitching situation is neither as acute as the pitching and catching situations of the Detroit club. With Cochrane behind the plate, the latter is at least a cohesive ball club. Without him, it is liable to be a rabbble.

Only One Football Game In Lawrence County Saturday

Ellwood Will Play Braddock, All Other Teams Away From Home

Lawrence County High School football teams with one exception will spend another week-end on foreign soil.

Shenango High will go to Mercer Friday, October 12 for a grid battle with Crowell's Mercer High grididers.

Union High will go to Grove City Friday afternoon for their annual battle with Coach Joe Hartman's eleven.

Bessemer High will play New Brighton High at New Brighton on Saturday, October 13.

New Castle High will be at Washington, Pa. Saturday, so it looks as if the football fans of New Castle and Lawrence County will be out of town either Friday or Saturday if they want to see football games.

Westminster College football team will play their fourth game of the season at Edinboro Teachers College.

The exception in the case will be Ellwood City High with Braddock at Ellwood City Saturday.

KEYSTONE GRID LEAGUE

The game played Sunday in the Keystone football league resulted in Pitt winning from Michigan 27 to 0 and Notre Dame holding Southern California to a 12-12 tie. The Pitt team leads the league with three victories and no defeats, but with one tie.

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—The dizziest, dastiest world series ever known will wind up today in a riot of personal feuds, with Cardinals and Tigers trying to sock each other and with both sides wholeheartedly damning Umpire Bill Owens from here to Shanghai and back. To say nothing of a few verbal brickbats tossed Umpire Bill Klem's way just for luck.

With such a setting, anything may happen and probably will on this single game hinges a world's championship, the major share of a king's ransom and perhaps a managerial head. The head in question belongs to Frankie Frisch and rumor has it, if he loses this series, he loses his job.

Crowder Or Auker

With all men available even though the game with Fordham resulted in some minor bruises, Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane are putting the Westminster football players to Saturday's game with Edinboro State Teachers College at Edinboro.

Scouts who watched Edinboro play California Teachers on Saturday report that Socks Harrison has a light, snappy team at Edinboro, and Nocera perform on the line. Silliman and Dinsmore have been starters in all the games played by the Teachers this year.

Nickie Uram's younger brother, Johnny, is down at Salem, having transferred from Slipperry Rock after one year on the Green and White.

Up in Mercer county we find two former New Castle high linemen taking care of the guard posts for Grove City College. Andy Beres is playing left guard with George Blane on the other side of the line.

Westminster has one New Castle boy on this year's squad, Harold Berry. He has been a steady performer at right guard for the Titans all year having played an active part in the John Carroll, Slipperry Rock and Fordham games. During his high school career, Harold was an end on the football team and a miler on the track squad. Had he continued his track career he probably would have been an even better miler than he is a football player.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The stock market was a dull affair again today with price changes small and the lack of volume minimizing their significance.

Heaviness in the commodity markets also had an adverse influence on the list and deterred traders from attempting any resumption on last week's rally.

Metal shares continued to display a somewhat easier tone with United States Smelting, Dome, McIntyre and American Smelting showing small losses. The easiness in the metals came in the face of a new record high gold price in the London market.

Railroad shares were under some slight pressure with Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway and Lackawanna showing losses running to a point.

In the industrials there was no clearly defined trend with United States Steel, Bethlehem, and American Can holding in a narrow range around yesterday's closing levels.

Utility shares were quiet and mixed as Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas met with offerings to dip fractionally, while North American held firm.

Liquors, chemicals, and specialties were generally firm in light trading.

Senior Hi-Y Hears
McClellan Describe
Growth Of Y.M.C.A.

A talk appropriate to Founder's month which the Y. M. C. A. is observing during October was delivered before the Senior Hi-Y club of Senior high school Boy's Work Director Harry McClellan in the Y last night. McClellan spoke for General Secretary R. L. Meermanns who could not attend.

It was in 1844 McClellan told the boys that George Williams founded the association in London. In 1851 branches opened in Boston and Montreal and, with the passing of years its early spiritual work was strengthened with the addition of mental, social and physical activities.

Herman Kitchen, Hi-Y president, took charge last night. Within a short time, it is hoped the club will sponsor a chapel program at school.

American Holders Of German Bonds Face Loss Of $2,250,000

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Americans who invested their savings in the faith of the German government today faced immediate loss of nearly $2,250,000.

The state department had reason to believe that American holders of German 7 per cent Dawes plan loan bonds will receive nothing on the $2,240,000 interest payments due Monday.

May Get Paid

On the other hand, British subjects who may happen to possess these same dollar bonds will receive 100 per cent payment.

It is against this discrimination that Secretary of State Hull has protested repeatedly to the German government but to no avail.

The British obtained full payment for their nationals only upon threat of actual trade retaliation against Germany. It was after the British parliament empowered the government to impound German credits that the German government promised to make full payments to any British subject who held a German bond, whether it happened to be one floated in Britain or anywhere else.

This government has been unable to make any trade retaliation threat against Germany because of its favorable balance of trade with that nation.

Scavengers Have Fruitless Search For Derby Monday

Epworth Leaguers Find Scarcey Of Domed Headgear In Scavenger Hunt

The scavengers were at large again last night this time young men and women from the senior Epworth League of the Mahoning M. E. church—and they couldn't find a brown derby or any kind of a derby in all the city.

Gathering at the church at 7:30 o'clock, the 20 young people started out in five automobiles in search of a list of required treasures. They achieved the autograph of the desk sergeant at the police station and two neckties from Fred L. Rents and even caught the necessary number of gold fish but the derby was something else again.

Arrangements for the party were in charge of Miss Jane Steen and Miss Isabelle Shaw. A delicious lunch was served after the crowd's return to the church.

American Holders Of German Bonds Face Loss Of $2,250,000

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Americans who invested their savings in the faith of the German government today faced immediate loss of nearly $2,250,000.

The state department had reason to believe that American holders of German 7 per cent Dawes plan loan bonds will receive nothing on the $2,240,000 interest payments due Monday.

May Get Paid

On the other hand, British subjects who may happen to possess these same dollar bonds will receive 100 per cent payment.

It is against this discrimination that Secretary of State Hull has protested repeatedly to the German government but to no avail.

The British obtained full payment for their nationals only upon threat of actual trade retaliation against Germany. It was after the British parliament empowered the government to impound German credits that the German government promised to make full payments to any British subject who held a German bond, whether it happened to be one floated in Britain or anywhere else.

This government has been unable to make any trade retaliation threat against Germany because of its favorable balance of trade with that nation.

Trade Retaliation

With the United States selling

more goods to Germany than it purchases from it, any trade retaliation would prove a boomerang.

The German government has sought to induce the state department to discuss a bargain agreement whereby Germany could increase the sale of its goods here in return for its promise to continue making payments on the Dawes and Young loans.

Secretary Hull, however, has declined to enter such discussions on the ground that Germany has no right to utilize debt payments due American investors to obtain trade concessions.

Meanwhile, American holders of more than $1,030,000,000 worth of German government bonds of all kinds faced not only the loss of current interest payments but little prospect of any payments in the near future.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The stock market was a dull affair again today with price changes small and the lack of volume minimizing their significance.

Heaviness in the commodity markets also had an adverse influence on the list and deterred traders from attempting any resumption on last week's rally.

Metal shares continued to display a somewhat easier tone with United States Smelting, Dome, McIntyre and American Smelting showing small losses. The easiness in the metals came in the face of a new record high gold price in the London market.

Railroad shares were under some slight pressure with Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Rail way and Lackawanna showing losses running to a point.

In the industries there was no clearly defined trend with United States Steel, Bethlehem, and American Can holding in a narrow range around yesterday's closing levels.

Utility shares were quiet and mixed as Consolidated Gas and Columbia Gas met with offerings to dip fractionally, while North American held firm.

Liquors, chemicals, and specialties were generally firm in light trading.

American Holders Of German Bonds Face Loss Of $2,250,000

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Americans who invested their savings in the faith of the German government today faced immediate loss of nearly $2,250,000.

The state department had reason to believe that American holders of German 7 per cent Dawes plan loan bonds will receive nothing on the $2,240,000 interest payments due Monday.

May Get Paid

On the other hand, British subjects who may happen to possess these same dollar bonds will receive 100 per cent payment.

It is against this discrimination that Secretary of State Hull has protested repeatedly to the German government but to no avail.

The British obtained full payment for their nationals only upon threat of actual trade retaliation against Germany. It was after the British parliament empowered the government to impound German credits that the German government promised to make full payments to any British subject who held a German bond, whether it happened to be one floated in Britain or anywhere else.

This government has been unable to make any trade retaliation threat against Germany because of its favorable balance of trade with that nation.

Trade Retaliation
With the United States selling

more goods to Germany than it purchases from it, any trade retaliation would prove a boomerang.

The German government has sought to induce the state department to discuss a bargain agreement whereby Germany could increase the sale of its goods here in return for its promise to continue making payments on the Dawes and Young loans.

Secretary Hull, however, has declined to enter such discussions on the ground that Germany has no right to utilize debt payments due American investors to obtain trade concessions.

Meanwhile, American holders of more than $1,030,000,000 worth of German government bonds of all kinds faced not only the loss of current interest payments but little prospect of any payments in the near future.
